WEDDING TO PROTECT GIRL'S MOTHER

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 26.—Plans for a wedding, the purpose of which was to enable the bride's mother to protect a legacy, became known with the filing of marriage intentions here by Richard Wall, son of Justice William C. Wall of the supreme court, and Miss Frances Osburn of Cambridge. Wall is a graduate student at Harvard.

In his will Henry Osburn, Miss Osburn's grandfather, provided that she should share equally in the estate with her father's sisters and that she or her husband should receive a yearly income. No provision was made for the girl's mother. On the death of Miss Osburn or her husband, the will stipulated, this income will revert to the estate. Wall and Miss Osburn explained that their purpose in planning to marry at this time was to protect Miss Osburn's mother and permit her to enjoy the income provided in the will.

A civil ceremony will be performed, said, after which Wall will continue his studies at Harvard and Miss

Osburn her work in an advertising office. At the end of the college year next June a church ceremony is planned, they said.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT

A novel entertainment known as a "Feet, Feats and Features" party was held in the gymnasium of the church of All Nations last evening by the Epworth league of the church. A most enjoyable time was had by the large gathering present and an impromptu Halloween program was given by those present. Rev. H. J. Skerik, Miss Helen Normande and Miss Alberta Ryder were in charge of the affair.

PREMIER MONROE AND COLLEAGUES ELECTED

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 25.—Premier Walter Monroe and Minister of Fisheries William Winsor, were elected in Monday's bye-election in Bonaville division. The complete tabulation of returns from the voting indicated that the premier and his colleagues won by twice the margin they obtained in the general election last June. Premier Monroe's vote was 532 and that of the Minister of Fisheries Sir William Coaker, president, fishermen's union, polled 266 votes. Robert Winsor, the second opposite candidate, 262.

They and their friends danced to music by Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra that evening. ¶Now, they wonder how they ever got along without Victrola, and without the unequalled Victor entertainment of which we send them news at regular intervals. ¶They kept putting off the day when they would have an instrument of Victor manufacture, because they thought they weren't ready to spend the money. ¶We showed them how they wouldn't gain by waiting. We have a plan that cares for that end of it. Find out about it.

Parking Plan

lies that the adverse effects of the plan to do away with parking periods in Merrimack street had an effect and there were more spaces along the curb than usual, is the case. Connor stops in this area for a certain length of time will not be ticketed, but long-time parking will be ticketed, first by warning, to be followed by police action if the offense is continued.

In connection with the Merrimack street plan, which is similar to the now in operation in Central street, Sergeant Connors points out that intensive parking accommodations are not in French street, which up to the present time have not been made use of.

BIG IMPROVEMENT IN WHOLESALE DRUG TRADE

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 30.—The past year was one of distinct improvement in the whole sale drug trade, according to a bulletin issued today by the Harvard Bureau of Business Research. This improvement was accomplished primarily through a reduction in the average ratio of total expense, the bulletin said.

The average firm, based on the statistics from 117 firms, considered, had net sales of $1,000,000, a gross margin of 17 per cent of this amount, total expense of 15.6 per cent, a net profit of 1.4 per cent and a stock turn 2.9 times during the year.

The study is one of nine being made annually by the bureau into the costs of doing business.

NEW METHOD FOR BLOOD TRANSFUSION

At the convention of the American College of Surgeons in New York last week, Dr. John M. Scannell, formerly of Lowell and a member of a well-known local family in control of the Scannell Boller Works and the Lowell Iron and Steel Co., made a blood transfusion in record time while conducting a clinic at the Greenpoint hospital. Surgeons in attendance complimented the doctor upon his feat, which was performed single handed in less than five minutes with an apparatus of his own invention. Previously it has been necessary to use a highly complicated instrument and several assistants to complete this difficult operation.

Dr. Scannell has not lived in Lowell for about 20 years, having left the city when a young man to study medicine and surgery in New York at the Bellevue hospital and has advanced far in his profession.

Nation-wide Peace to Be Formally Declared in Chinatown Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—An armistice has been declared in the Tong war and it is expected that a nation-wide peace will be formally declared in Chinatown this afternoon.

At a meeting here last night a treaty was drawn up and approved. It was learned for the first time last night that the latest outbreak of the Tong war, which spread across the country with murder in its wake, was the result of a business rivalry between the Tong of 25 years' standing.

WILL BROADCAST FOOTBALL GAME

An account of the Yale-Army football game at New Haven Saturday will be broadcast through Station WYAP, New York City, by Graham McNamee, one of the leading sports announcers of the country. Mr. McNamee will begin the broadcast about half-an-hour before game time, outlining the work of the two contending teams in practice and giving the radio audience a word picture of the crowd. From the starting whistle to the last pistol shot, marking the end of the game, each play will be described as it develops. Eddie B. McNeil, a former football coach, will assist Mr. McNamee in this broadcast.

Boston Symphony Orchestra to Include Beethoven's Classic in Program Here

There was considerable curiosity anticipation of the performance of Beethoven's 5th Symphony by the Boston Symphony orchestra under the leadership of its new conductor, Serge Koussevitzky, at the second pair of Boston Symphony concerts in Boston October 17 and 18. The word had come from Europe that this conductor was capable of interpreting classical symphonies very much in his own way, causing angry protests from certain conservatives and tradition worshippers. The actual performance of this piece by the orchestra in Boston brought nothing from audience and critics but enthusiasm for the conductor's eloquence in this immortal symphony.

The 5th Symphony will be part of the program to be presented in the Memorial Auditorium next Sunday afternoon when Mr. Koussevitzky brings his 105 musicians here for the first performance he has directed in this country outside of Boston. Seats are selling rapidly at Sienner's where mail orders will be filled or personal applications taken care of.

DISCUSSED SCHOOL AND HOME PROBLEMS

Parents of pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Varum school met with the teachers in the school hall last evening and held an informal discussion of school and home problems. Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, principal, was in charge of the meeting and called upon the parents to assist the teachers in their work with the children.

An entertainment by school children followed the meeting, the program being as follows: Piano solos, Stella Duczynski; violin solos, Charles Tully; clarinet solos, Donat Martel; piano solo, Emma Hilt; piano solo, Eileen Flynn; selections, the Barbara Trio, composed of Sylvester Barbara, cornetist; Lionel Barbara, violinist and Marguerite Barbara, pianist.

ARE YOU COMMITTING THIS CRIME AGAINST YOUR HEALTH?

An enormous number of people are weak, nervous and ailing, always complaining and doctoring, simply because they have committed the great American crime against their health—because while indoor life, overwork and improper diet have exhausted the iron from their blood, making it thin, pale and watery, they have made no effort to replace this iron which the blood must have to keep them well and strong.

You can easily determine whether you have been committing this health crime. You can tell by counting plenty of spinach, lentils and green vegetables. But doctors always advise people who are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down to take iron in concentrated form—organic iron. Nuxated iron is organic iron like the iron in your own blood and like that in spinach and green vegetables. It is entirely different from the mineral iron used in the past, for it is readily assimilated and so acts much more quickly and surely. Besides, it doesn't inflame the teeth or disturb the stomach. Nuxated iron represents organic iron in such concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be equal to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables, half a dozen baked apples. Millions of people have used it to quickly help make rich red blood, and give increased strength, energy and endurance.

Make this convincing test: Get Nuxated iron today and take it for only two weeks. You will notice a marvelous improvement in health and strength, or your money will be refunded. Sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.—Adv.

For Breakfast—

EGGs on toast is an old, favorite dish for breakfast or light supper. It's good eating, too, especially when you make the toast from Old Home Potato Bread. The home-made flavor of this loaf makes every dish you put it in taste better for its use.

Old Home comes to you in a long loaf that goes a long way. It cuts into many more slices than the ordinary shape, and the slices are of a size that fits your toaster without trimming, or make the daintiest sandwiches. You'll surely appreciate these points.

Betsy Ross Bread

As always, Betsy Ross bread is made with milk, and so is a loaf of rich nutrition. Milk gives it high food value and adds greatly to the flavor. One loaf will prove this to you. Order it today from your grocer.

ROOSEVELT IS LIKE ANDY GUMP

Gov. Smith Says His Opponent is Being All Things to All People

Staten Island Stages Torchlight Parade in Honor of Governor

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—With a torchlight and red fire parade, including several bands, Staten Island tendered its first reception of the gubernatorial campaign to Governor Alfred Smith last night.

"It would serve no useful purpose to go over the numerous misstatements and inaccuracies in the so-called labor record of the republican party that the colonel mentions," Governor Smith declared. "Every time I check him up on one misstatement he makes another. He never seems to want to learn. He does not have to go back to 1867 to let the people know where he stands on these questions; they have his own record."

The governor said Colonel Roosevelt reminded him of Andy Gump in being all things to all people. "There is this difference, though," he said, "Andy Gump would never wear another man's collar."

Roosevelt on Jump
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Returning from a tour of Westchester county, where he made speeches in five towns last night, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will continue his campaign for governor with 11 addresses in Harlem tonight.

Colonel Roosevelt concentrated his remarks yesterday on the state public school system. He accused the democrats of trying to get control of the system for political purposes through a bill introduced by Senator Walker taking the appointment of the head of the system from the board of regents and putting it in the hands of the governor.

Drift to Democrats
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Governor Smith's plurality in New York city in the coming election will be greater than the 479,000 he obtained in 1922. It is predicted by George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall. His statement, the first in which he has taken figures, comes as an official Tammany prediction.

John W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate will be "well up with Governor Smith" in voting, the Tammany leader predicted. "The drift from La Follette set in several days ago," said Mr. Olvany. "The drift is to the whole democratic ticket. We ought to carry every congressional district in New York county and we will gain several seats in the senate and assembly."

FIRE AT SIASCONSET

Picturesque Village Narrowly Escaped Destruction Early Today

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 30.—The picturesque village of Siasconset, where actors and artists have established a summer colony, escaped destruction in a fire early today. The flames appeared in the Phillips building, and ran through it, spreading to the Morris building adjoining. Sparks carried the fire then to the Postoffice building, while the volunteer fire department fought to stop it. Help went out from here, and after two hours the firemen had succeeded in preventing the flames from reaching the summer cottages and other buildings in the business center. The total loss was only about $12,000.

FRANCE'S RECOGNITION PLEASES RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press)—France's recognition of soviet Russia is hailed with keen satisfaction through the country, the newspapers in lengthy front page articles pointing out the advantages which are expected to accrue to both countries. General satisfaction also is expressed that the alleged Zinoviev letter, to the British communists, which created such a stir in England, had no effect upon the French. Premier Rykov attributes France's action largely to Premier Herriot's personal visit to Russia in 1922 and to France's need of direct commercial relations with Russia. He remarks that all the great powers of Europe have recognized the soviet regime and that there now remain only Japan and the United States.

Goulet was arrested on a capias last night and when arraigned in district court this morning it was learned that he has been indicted by the grand jury with Napoleon Clitche on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time. He was taken to East Cambridge this afternoon.

END ISSUANCE OF PAPER MONEY

MOSCOW, Oct. 26.—The central executive council has decided to suspend the issuance of paper money.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and costs about 5¢. Ready and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/4 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/4 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

NEW MANAGER AT SNYDER'S HAT STORE

After a year or more absence from this city, Fred T. Graham, a well known and popular Lowell boy, has returned to this city to assume the management of Snyder's Hat store, 92 Central street. He is a graduate of the Varum grammar and Lowell high schools and has had considerable experience in the hat game. He is renewing acquaintances at his new "home."

TRUCK DRIVER HAD NARROW ESCAPE

A narrow escape from injury was experienced yesterday afternoon by Charles Monoxolis, driver for the Thomas Boston & Lowell express, when the 8-ton truck he was driving in North Woburn swerved off the roadway and plunged over a 12-foot embankment. Monoxolis jumped as the truck plunged down the bank and escaped with a slight shaking-up. The truck was laden with 48 barrels of fish consigned to dealers in this city. The cargo remained intact and was brought here last evening by another of the company's trucks.

Life Is Worth While if old folks are well

To be well, avoid chronic constipation.
The laxative for old people is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

It would be of great benefit to elderly people if they realized that all their complaints are aggravated by constipation, as constipation is a form of congestion that affects the brain, nervous and muscular systems.

Headaches develop, aches and pains become worse, and rheumatism more painful. If you keep your intestines free from poisons you will find yourself happier and without those disorders usually associated with advancing age.

It is a mistake for old people to take strong cathartic pills, as they are seldom necessary and their repeated use requires larger and larger doses. Like the taking of "candy cathartics" is bad, as many of these contain a coarser drug that often causes skin eruptions, and if you have taken salt waters you know how dry and weak you felt afterwards.

The fact is elderly people need only a mild, simple laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is gentle in action and free from gripping, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. Use it awhile and you will soon be able to dispense with medicines of all kinds.

More elderly people use Syrup Pepsin than any other laxative, and Mrs. Wesley Davis, 819 26th St., So. Bellingham, Wash., and Mr. A. R. MacLellan, 1209 Sixth St., N. E., Washington, D. C., believe it has added many healthy years to their lives. Get a bottle at a nearby drug store and try a spoonful the next time you feel constipated, have a headache, biliousness, flatulence, dyspepsia, night cramps, or in any other way feel out of sorts as a result of not having had proper elimination.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is not an experiment with old folks, as it has been on the market over 30 years and is today the largest selling laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles being sold annually. Buy it with the understanding that it will do as we state or your money will be promptly refunded.

HUSBAND SAID WHY NOT TRY IT

Wife Said She Would. Result, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

East Hardwick, Vermont.—"Last winter I was not able to do any work at all. I had backache, headache, sideache, and was sick all the time for six months. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and my husband said to me, 'Why don't you try it?' So I said I would, and he went and got me a dozen bottles. It has done me more good than I can ever tell, and my friends say, 'What have you done to yourself?' You look so well. I tell them it is the Vegetable Compound that makes me so well and strong. There is no use to suffer with backache and pains. I will tell every one what it has done for me."—Mrs. Frank, Route No. 2, E. Hardwick, Vermont.

Why Suffer From Bronchial Asthma?

Simple Home Treatment Makes Breathing Easy

Just because you start the day tired, listless, worn-out from loss of rest and the difficult breathing of miserable Asthma—do not think you have to stay this way. Nearly 200 Presbyterians from all over New England have attended this week's sessions and the Lowell rally next October is expected to bring together many more faithfuls.

Lowell was represented at the Boston convention by Rev. L. E. Shields, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Elder and Mrs. Edward Hanson, Elder and Mrs. Thomas Lee, Mrs. J. M. Craig, Mrs. John McDonald, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Leavitt, Miss Margaret Holgate and Miss Anna Hanson.

For any form of Asthma where the bronchial tubes are irritated, the breathing short and difficult, the best, relieving action is really wonderful. Sufferers who can't breathe at night and who gasp for a good clear breath, will appreciate the relief and comfort Oxidase gives.

Oxidase is a tablet made from essential oils which, when the patient dissolves in the mouth, almost immediately soothes the irritation, clears out the choked up air passages and enables the sufferer to breathe easily and get a real comfortable night's sleep.

It is sold by leading druggists, including Green's drug store and Liggett's, who agree to refund the full purchase price of the first package to any sufferer who does not obtain satisfactory relief. Asthmatic sufferers should give Oxidase a trial. It is harmless and inexpensive.—Adv.

The Purity of Cuticura Makes it Unexcelled For All Toilet Purposes

HUGHES SAYS DEMOCRAT PROGRAM "STERILE"

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes assailed the democratic foreign relations campaign policy and charged Senator La Follette's party with "running away" from its platform in a campaign address for the republican ticket here last night.

Mr. Hughes declared the democratic program to be "sterile." He again attacked the position taken by the democratic national convention on the League of Nations.

"If it were demanded that we should join the League of Nations," he said, "and thus participate as a member in the work of the organization, that would be an understandable demand, but it is precisely the position the democratic party has refused to take. It has declined for reasons of its own, to make the question of joining the league an issue in this campaign.

"The third party," said Secretary Hughes, "is not sterile. The third party has a definite program. But the more it is discussed, the worse for the third party. They realize it themselves and are running away from the platform which they had so deliberately prepared. But the platform is there and they cannot escape it. It is the reason for their existence."

The proposal of the La Follette party that "congress may be re-enacting a statute make it effective over a judicial veto," declared Mr. Hughes, "involves the destruction of the constitutional guarantees of individual liberty."

Mr. Hughes prefaced his discussion of the national campaign by a plea for support of the gubernatorial candidacy of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in New York state.

LA FOLLETTE IN BOSTON TONIGHT

Independent Candidate on 34-Hour Invasion of Coolidge's Home State

Advocates Government Ownership of Water Power in Address at Schenectady

LA FOLLETTE SPECIAL TO BOSTON, ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Primed for a 34 hour invasion of Massachusetts, President Coolidge's home state, Senator Robert M. La Follette left here today for Boston where he speaks tonight.

The independent presidential candidate stopped here overnight on his way from Schenectady where in an address last night he advocated government ownership of water power, and declared that "when we purge our life of monopoly through public ownership, we purge our government of corruption as well."

Senator La Follette announced that in Boston tonight he would discuss "imperialism and the on-sweeping drive of American gold and American oil in the hands of the house of Morgan and the house of Rockefeller in compact with imperialistic Great Britain to make an American-Anglo conquest of the world."

After his dash into New England, Mr. La Follette will turn westward to carry his fight for the presidency again into Pennsylvania. On Friday night he will deliver a speech in Pittsburgh, home of Secretary Mellon, and then will go to Cleveland to wind up campaigning Saturday night.

Commenting further on publication of income tax returns, before leaving here for Boston, the Wisconsin senator declared in a statement that "the attempt of the republican administration to intimidate the newspapers of the country and to invade constitutional right of freedom of the press through threats put out by the republican attorney-general is only another instance of the lengths to which the republicans will go in their service of private monopoly system."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Largely as a result of storms sweeping inland from the north Pacific ocean, the last three days, several coastwise vessels were in difficulties today.

The motorship Shark, a 44 ton craft, was reported on the rocks on the northern California coast, near the Oregon border. The crew was not believed to be in immediate danger.

From Point Lobos came the report that the French schooner Roy Somers had suffered damage to steering gear and other equipment and was being towed to port by a tug.

The tanker Alden Anderson, of the Associated Oil company was burned at Aron, about 18 miles northeast of Oakland. Reports said several members of the crew jumped overboard and six had not been accounted for.

Damage to the ship and surrounding property was placed at $1,000,000. The blaze started when a section of the pier caved in and the tanker, a steel tanker of 5867 tons, was unloading crude oil.

SUBMARINE ASHORE, CREW RESCUED

HONOLULU, Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press)—Navy officials announced that the submarine R-1 had been ashore on a soft coral reef at the entrance to Honolulu harbor since midnight Tuesday. The officers and crew, numbering 25, were rescued at dawn yesterday.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY
The home of Miss Evangeline Horan in Highland avenue was the scene last evening of a pretty social gathering in honor of Miss Emma O'Connor on the occasion of her 20th birthday anniversary. Miss Eva Horan in behalf of the large gathering attending, named Miss O'Connor a beautiful silk umbrella. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with the season's colors and Halloween novelties. An enjoyable program, including piano selections by Mrs. Bertha Sullivan and Rosetta Laverty; vocal selections by Mrs. Annette Houston, Anna Keefe, Anna Farrell, Patrick Cushing, Charles McCuskey, Fred Graves, and Joseph Buckley, and recitations by Miss Isabelle Walker and Julia Healey were enjoyed. Martin O'Connor and George Ryne entertained with novelty dances and were accompanied by Henry McCabe on the piano. Harmonica duets by Fred Leavitt and John Gomes were the feature of the evening. Mrs. Horan, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Kasi were the hostesses of the evening, while Miss Eva Horan and Miss Madeline Connolly were in charge of the affair.

SENATOR WALSH AND THE TARIFF

The Boston Herald charges Senator Walsh with inconsistency when he says that he is not a free trader but a protectionist. The senator never favored free trade, but always a tariff for revenue and for the reasonable protection of American industries against the dumping of the foreign products of cheap labor upon our shores.

That, however, does not, as the Herald infers, prove that he favors "protection gone mad" as illustrated in certain features of the Fordney-McCumber law. The tariff protection that enables Secretary Mellon's Aluminum Trust to maintain a monopoly and defy competition, is a case in point. There are many other instances in which the present tariff is prohibitive, and it is this particular form of protection that Senator Walsh condemns under the head of "special privilege" and as a sop to the predatory interests in payment for large contributions to republican campaign funds.

In reply to a question by Senator Walsh as to whether he approved of the Fordney-McCumber law, Speaker Gillett at the Auditorium the other evening said he certainly favored the present tariff law, although he admitted it is not perfect by any means. The attitude of Senator Walsh in regard to the tariff was indicated in congress when he moved for an investigation of the operation of the tariff law as affecting the textile industries of New England. The senator found that there was a loophole in the present law that operated against the textile industries of New England by permitting the importation of large quantities of unfinished cotton fabrics. These importations caused many of the New England mills either to curtail or shut down. The investigation was blocked and defeated by republican opposition in congress, undoubtedly for the reason that it might show up the defects of the present tariff law and bring a degree of credit to the Massachusetts senator for the exposure and his effort to remedy an economic evil.

The Herald talks of the Underwood tariff and voices the sentiments of republican extremists on protection to the effect that "it did not protect." That statement is untrue, and there is abundant evidence to prove that the Underwood tariff law was one of the best ever put on the statute books. The duties did not average as high as those of the Fordney-McCumber bill, but they were more justly applied and there was no instance of anything in the line of an excessive duty that would shelter monopolies with power to plunder the public, even on some of the necessities of life.

SEC. WILBUR'S MISSION

Secretary Wilbur of the navy is coming out to answer criticism of the naval policies of the administration and to tell what he is to ask congress to do next year.

Will he tell the anxious public why he was ordered by the president to stop the work of raising the emplacement of guns on about twenty warships in order to put their gun ranges on a parity with that of British ships? Was it not because of a protest received from England on the ground that such action was a violation of the agreement embodied in the arms reduction treaty of which we hear so much?

If that treaty stands in the way, congress cannot break it. Yet Secretary Wilbur says congress will be asked for authority to make this change. The gun range of some twenty of our war vessels included in our 5.5 ratio is two miles less than that of the British ships and yet when England objects we are obliged to stop the work.

The fact is, that while England has built beyond the treaty limit in some directions, the republican administration has not kept our navy up to that ratio. England had more scout cruisers than we had when the treaty was adopted and she has built more since. Although the treaty presumes a steady equality, we have fallen behind; and many of our ships reckoned as against British vessels are old and behind the times, yet when England protested against increasing their gun range, we simply bowed assent and quit.

Now Wilbur tries to shift the responsibility by saying that he will ask congress for authority.

That looks like a mere subterfuge. The conference of which the republican boast, bartered our freedom to keep our navy in fit condition for any emergency in national defense.

DOWN BOTH THE COOKS

The voters of Massachusetts are requested to pay particular attention to the candidates for state auditor so that Strabo V. Claggett, democrat, may be chosen over Alonzo B. Cook, republican. It has been announced from many platforms throughout the state that Mr. Cook should be defeated in the interest of good government, fair play and public decency. Mr. Claggett at a recent rally in this city, told why the voters of all parties should oppose Mr. Cook's election. The reasons given were unanswerable. They were very numerous and among the least important were inefficiency and neglect of duty.

Mr. Claggett is a highly capable man, well qualified in every way to discharge the duties of the office with credit to himself, his party and the people at large. It would seem that there should be no possibility of Cook's election except that his name be mistaken for that of Frederick W. Cook, who is the republican candidate for secretary of state. The latter's opponent on the democratic ticket is John J. Cummings of Boston. The only safe course, therefore, is to vote against both the Cooks and then there will be no danger of spoiling the political broth.

THE SILLY STUFF

The fact that President Coolidge, as republicans claim, wears a night shirt, is put forward as another reason why he should be elected. The implication is that John W. Davis wears pajamas and that, per contra, is put forward as a reason why he should be defeated. Did anybody ever hear of such silly doings in a very important political contest? Such matters are only brought forward to divert public attention from the main issues of the campaign. It is for the same reason that President Coolidge is exploited not only as the party candidate, but also the party platform. The platform adopted at the Cleveland convention is lost sight of and the doings of certain high officials in opposition to the principles and policies of the party are now forgotten or kept in the background. As a foil to the charges of corruption, it is being shouted from the housetops that President Coolidge is honest. Of course he is

He Gave It Up

A visitor to a school, after questioning an unhappy little boy about various matters asked him if he knew the Ten Commandments. The boy said he did not. "You don't know the Ten Commandments?" "No, sir," he boy replied. "What is your name?" "Moses, sir." The visitor gave it up.

Sour Congressman

Two former cronies met on Broadway after a separation of many years. "What's this I hear, Jethro?" asked one. "They say you're a congressman now." "Yes, that's true," replied the other, "but I'm not a member of congress." "How is it, just like being married?" "A constant joy," said a lot of explaining when you get home.

Undoing the Sentence

A judge, who had been serving in a criminal court, effected a transfer to a divorce court. Some lawyers were wondering why he made the change. One of them offered a solution. "The judge wanted to get out of the criminal court," "What has that to do with it?" "Well, in a criminal court he had to send people to jail. In the divorce court he gives them their liberty."

Ownership at Stake

A couple of big business men in Washington were talking one evening about taxation. "There is no telling where we will land by the time the tax bill is settled," said one. "Our taxes will be so high, we'll be an old negro slave," once heard of. Somebody asked him who he belonged to. "I don't know, huh," he replied. "Did I hear you say you're playin' poker?" Forbes Magazine.

The Law Defeated

It's illegal in Wisconsin to take ducks from an open boat in open water. It is also illegal to sell ducks at auction. But Arthur Tulloch of Victory did both and enjoyed a duck dinner without hindrance from the same warden. He was standing in the bow of a launch with a lantern in hand while crossing the Mississippi after dark when without warning a half tonard sailed into him at top speed. The duck was killed.

Girl of His Dreams

One night Robert Wilson, Los Angeles, went to the theatre, and there on the other side of the footlights was the girl of his dreams. He was there again the next night and the next until the show left for San Francisco, but not until Robert had tossed the girl a note and received a smile in return. Robert followed her to San Francisco, although it took all his savings to buy a one-way ticket. The show didn't re-open and he could not find the girl. He was very tired and hungry and broke. Welfare workers found him and wrote him letters for funds, for Robert is only 12 and the girl of his dreams, eight.

Sell On, Sell On!

Sell on, sell on, thou fearless bard! Wherever blows the welcome wind, it cannot lead to scenes more dark, more sad than those we leave behind. Each wave that passes seems to say, "Thou' death beneath our smiles may lie."

Less cold we are, less false than they, Who's wrecked thy hopes and thee?

Sell on, sell on—thou' endless space—Thro' calm—thou' tempest—stop no more!

The alarmist sees a resting place To him who leaves such hearth on shore. Or, if some desert land we meet Where never yet false-brother men profaned a world, that else were sweet, Then rest thee, bard, but not till then.

—THOMAS MOORE.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Congressman Rogers worked a hearty laugh out of his audience at the republican rally at the Auditorium Tuesday night when he expressed fear that another member of his family—his wife—will receive more votes than he on election day. Mrs. Rogers is a Coolidge elector and her congressman husband admits he will be obliged to tend strictly to his knitting if the male in the family is to continue to uphold his prestige.

Speaking of the republican rally, the voice of Mrs. Anna Tillinghast carried easily into all corners of the Auditorium, while the voices of the men speakers were not so easily heard. In addition, Mrs. Tillinghast is a master or mistress of diction and throws out her words so forcefully as to insure their being heard and understood even in the last row of the balcony. Say this of Mrs. Tillinghast, too, she speaks the dictates of a brilliant mind. It is rather remarkable also that at the democratic rally recently held in the same hall, it was a woman who carried off the oratorical honors for wit, humor and effective points. It seems that women are likely to excel in oratory, which so far as men are concerned, is rapidly becoming a lost art.

A mile in 23 seconds—Malcolm Campbell makes it in England with his auto, a 12-cylinder Sunbeam. Ten years ago such speed would have astounded the world. No one pays much attention to it now, for airplanes are far faster. The importance of anything is entirely by contrast or relativity. The goal of brain training should be to develop a sense of values for determining the importance of things and situations in relation to others. Values are relative.

Brush fires are threatened in various districts in which the leaves and withered grass need only the match to start a fire that will do immense harm. Turning up leaves is dangerous business these days.

HALLOWEEN

Sister Mary Plays Hostess at Your Halloween Party

A ROOM DECORATED FOR A HALLOWEEN PARTY

By SISTER MARY

The girl who is planning a Halloween party will find half the success of her party due to careful lighting arrangements.

The lights—unless a bright one is necessary for some particular game—should be dim and flickering. Candles best achieve this effect. Paint wavering light will immediately suggest the occult and unusual to Halloween guests and will create a "spooky" atmosphere. If electric lights are used, the shades should be lined with green tissue paper.

Try greens, grays, and an occasional gleam of orange for a color scheme. The grays will lend a vagueness and mystery that is most intriguing. A gray but made of wire and cheesecloth suspended in such a way that he glows will be more effective than a black one. And gray witches sailing on their broomsticks to wipe the cobwebs out of the sky are more mysterious than dead black witches.

To make "cobwebs," paste long ravellings of fine silk on a piece of cardboard and hang it in some doorway through which each guest must pass. The cardboard and threads must be inconspicuous and the threads, of course, of different lengths that will suit the height of the guests.

Green frogs and lizards and snakes, all creatures chummy with witches and sorceresses, might replace the usual bric-a-brac and drape themselves over backs or chairs or peep from dull sprays of leaves. The frogs and snakes make of cheesecloth or tulle and stuffed with rags, straw or sawdust, dependent on where the reptile is to deposit himself. For instance, a snake twisted gracefully around the arm of a chair should be stuffed with rags, while a lizard investigating the edge of a table should gain his backbone from sawdust.

THE WITCH OF 1924

Halloween Tricks and Games

THE GHOST FIRE

A big dishpan is placed in the center of the floor of a dark room. The pan contains some four or five pounds of salt which has been fairly well saturated with wood alcohol. The party gathers around the pan, chanting any sort of meaningless but impressive nonsense.

Each has been given a chestnut marked in some distinguishing way. A lighted match is thrown on the salt, which breaks into an uncanny green blaze. The chestnuts then are thrown in, and the boy or girl whose chestnut cracks first will be the first bride or bridegroom. Of course, the chestnuts must be eaten immediately after popping.

BOB FOR APPLES

The hands of the contestants must be behind them in bobbing for apples. In the heart of each apple a name may be placed, or an initial letter cut in the skin. Each player will draw one apple with his teeth from the tub of water in which they are floating. The person whose name or initials are on the apple drawn out of the water will be the partner of the one who bobbed for it.

The apples should be stemless. In some localities the winner of the greatest number of apples is awarded a prize.

FORTUNE TELLING

Supply each guest at your party with a piece of bright red sealing wax, and a cup or shallow bowl of ice water. The wax is melted and dropped through a ring or key (a wedding ring, if possible) into the water. It will instantly harden in branch-like formations, supposed to be "prophecies."

Any ingenious person can interpret the shapes and furnish much amusement for his listeners. Thus, a bell-shaped drop indicates "a wedding within a year"; anything resembling a torch or lamp may be a forecast of "fame," etc., etc.

LOVE PROPHECIES

Any girl can find out at least the first letter of her future husband's name by peeling an apple carefully, so as to keep the paring in one unbroken ribbon, then taking the paring by one end, swinging it three times around the head and letting it drop. The paring surely will fall into the shape of the desired first initial. Morris and Mary McMahon; chorus, "A Smile Will Go a Long, Long Way"; Irish dances, Misses Alice Tobin and Frances O'Donnell. The graduates also participated in the program, Miss Donoghue Donoghue of this city, Edith Harries, of Lynn, and Margaret Murphy of St. John, N. B.

GHOSTLY HAND

Stuff an old kid glove with rags or paper. Then wet the outside of the glove with ice water. Invite your guests, one by one, into a darkened room to meet the "presiding spirit" of the evening. The person holding the glove contrives to have the guest take it in his or her hand.

It is even better for the host to put a wet glove on his own hand and grasp the hand of each person with it. The clammy, creepy feeling of being touched with a cold, wet glove will get a rise out of "most anybody." It is one of the best of the Halloween spirit tricks.

ORACLES

The "Delphic Oracle" will provide much amusement for a Halloween party. Some member of the party should be stationed in a dark corner. Let him stand on a box to increase his height, shroud him in a sheet, and let him hold a jack of lantern on his head. The oracle can answer only "yes" or "no" to questions asked her, but the vehemence with which she nods or shakes her head can be very expressive. The oracle should be surrounded by constellations and autumn leaves and vines suitably arranged. Pumpkins and vegetables of all sorts can be used to hold candles.

HELD HALLOWEEN PARTY

Pleasant Affair Under Auspices of American Legion Auxiliary in Liberty Hall

A most enjoyable Halloween party was held in Liberty hall last evening under the auspices of the American Legion auxiliary. The affair took the form of a costume party and the many colorful gowns worn by the young ladies present added much to the general enjoyment of the evening.

The hall was tastefully decorated for the affair with the season's colors and palms while the balconies were hung with black and orange bunting. The decorations were the gift of the Lowell Decorating Co. for the benefit of the Legion, while the proceeds of the party will be donated to the fund for the carrying on of the work among the disabled soldiers.

The officers of the evening were as follows: General chairman, Mrs. Catherine Freaney; assistant chairman, Mrs. Jane Tansey; reception committee chairman, Mrs. Anna Robbins, Mrs. Nellie Mack, Mrs. Ann Bradley, Mrs. Nellie Z. Usher, Mrs. Hannah Guerlin, Mrs. Walsh, Miss Mollie O'Sullivan; refreshments, Mrs. Catherine Connors, Mrs. Nellie Cochran; historian, Miss Nellie E. Pifer; executive committee, Mrs. Anna Robbins, Mrs. Nellie Mack, Mrs. Ann Bradley.

The officers of the auxiliary are as follows: President, Mrs. Nellie Z. Usher; senior vice president, Mrs. Catherine Freaney; junior vice president, Mrs. Winnifred Brick; secretary, Mrs. Jane Tansey; treasurer, Mrs. Lydia Messier; press correspondent, Miss Mollie O'Sullivan; chaplain, Mrs. Mary Connors; patriotic instructor, Miss Nellie Cochran; historian, Miss Nellie E. Pifer; executive committee, Mrs. Anna Robbins, Mrs. Nellie Mack, Mrs. Ann Bradley.

HALLOWEEN PARTY BY GORHAM CLUB

The Gorham Social and Athletic club, composed of prominent men of the upper Gorham street district, will hold a Halloween dancing party in the Commodore on Friday evening. Active committees have been working on plans for the affair for several weeks and indications point to the event being one of the most successful of the season. The Gorham club has conducted a series of ladies' nights at their well appointed rooms at the corner of Gorham and Olive streets during the past few months, all of which have been attended by many enjoyable features. But the party on Friday night is expected to eclipse all previous endeavors. Miner and Doyle's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

PARTY IN LIBERTY HALL THIS EVENING

Liberty hall will this evening be the scene of a merry gathering when a Halloween party will be given by the League of Catholic Women. The hospitality of the league is always most cordial and this evening promises to be one of the feature events of the early social season. Favors galore will add much to the general enjoyment of the affair while a popular local orchestra will provide music for dancing. The decoration committee has a pretty color scheme to be carried out in the arrangement of the hall and indications point to a successful and enjoyable event.

HALLOWEEN PARTY IN PARISH HOUSE

An enjoyable Halloween party was held in the parish house of All Souls church last night with about 175 members of the congregation present. Mrs. A. F. French was chairman of the committee in charge. Entertainment was given under the direction of Miss Edith Franks, Allan Dumas and Katherine Baker. The hall was prettily decorated in Halloween style.

NURSES GRADUATED AT ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL

Three members of the class of 1924 of St. John's hospital training school were graduated last evening in the midst of Halloween festivities attended by 52 undergraduates, instructors and members of the hospital staff. The graduates are the Misses Florence Donoghue of this city, Edith Harries, of Lynn, and Margaret Murphy of St. John, N. B.

It being the Halloween season, it was believed an appropriate time to entertain the graduates and the undergraduates succeeded very well in their program. In keeping with the season, costumes of every kind were worn by those attending, Maggie and Jiggs, being the features of the evening. Every nation of the earth was interpreted at the affair while Wears Wilkes and witches, as well as goblins and bogies cast their spell on the gathering. The dining hall, where the affair

DANCING PARTY BY TRENOWETH GIRLS

A dancing party will be conducted by the Trenoweth Girls at the Green Lantern, formerly the Pawtucket boat house, tonight. It will take the form of a Halloween party, and a number of features peculiar to the season will be on the program. The committee in charge of the affair has been at work on plans for several weeks, and an enjoyable evening is assured all who attend. Ted Marshall's orchestra will furnish music.

Previous to the closing of the evening's festivities a tribute to St. John's was read.

Miss Elizabeth Towne was the accompanist of the evening while the piano for the occasion was kindly furnished by Richard O'Connell. General dancing followed the banquet and was enjoyed to a late hour.

HALLOWEEN

They tell me Halloween's the time
When love is in the making;
When witches wave their wands sublime
And set fair hearts at aching.
The goblins gather round about
And games that come to pass
Will show your lover, if you'll look
Within a looking glass.

I've tried these magic, mystic ways
Of finding love that's true
But fate, it seems, just taunts and plays;
There's just one thing to do.
I've carved myself a pumpkin, just
As scary as can be.
I'm hoping it will scare her into
Really loving me!

The Night of Witches

Nearly 2000 years ago, youth was joyously and impishly celebrating Halloween. It is one of our oldest institutions, a link connecting us with the weird superstitions of long ago.

No longer do we actually believe in witches and marauding demons—but once a year we are pleased to imagine we do.

To our ancient ancestors, the witches and demons and marauding ogres were very real. The shadow of those barbaric days falls over us on Halloween. Study the customs of this "night of mischief" and you are transported back to the time which, while barbaric, was romantic and adventurous in the extreme. We have lost a lot of the joys of life by being disillusioned as to the reality of such mystic characters as witches. Progress is many things, including dull.

How Halloween Originated

Memories of our ancestors who believed in goblins, banshees, ghouls and other evil spirits are called up by the modern celebration of Halloween.

In the early days of the Christian church, the first of November was set aside as All Saints' day, because it was impossible to observe a separate day for each saint.

The night before All Saints' day was known as "Holly evening"—then as Halloween. It was a fearful night, during which the evil spirits were believed to burst from their bonds and haunt the world, having a last fling prior to the sacred day.

There was, however, a brighter side to Halloween. It marked the end of harvest and the beginning of terms of farm tenancy and landlordship.

Renewing his contracts with his tenants or making arrangements with new ones, it was the Halloween custom of landlords to bring forth the dawning bowl, baskets of red apples and sacks of nuts for a great celebration.

The spirits of the past and present abounded in all their glory last evening when St. Peter's girls made merry at its annual Halloween party and Masquerade ball held in St. Peter's school hall. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion in Halloween colors. The main feature of the evening was the grand march in which all members, in costume, participated. Miss Ethel Lundy was awarded first prize for the most original costume while the second prize was awarded Miss Helen Ropelle. Miss Grace Madden and Miss Estelle Mulligan were given third and fourth prizes respectively. A splendid sketch in eight short acts was presented following which a beautiful Halloween feast was served and dancing enjoyed to musical strains from station S.P.G.C. The program in full follows:

Eyes of Country on Columbia-Cornell Game Saturday—Manty and Murphy Meet Tonight

Team Travels to Ithaca to Tackle Cornell as an Even Money Bet—Yale-Army Game Attracts Attention—Teams in Tribute to Haughton

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. (By the Associated Press)—When the eleven of Yale and the Army meet in the Yale bowl Saturday, it will be the 24th meeting of these two rivals in a series which started in 1893. Of the 23 games played, the Elis held an impressive lead, having emerged victorious in 15, while the Army has won only three. Five had ended in ties.

The two teams have met annually since 1923 except for a period of nine years between 1912 and 1921, when the first three "six" football was restored to the curriculum at Columbia. The last Army victory was in 1911, the Cadets won by a score of 6 to 0.

Another game sharing the spotlight on Saturday will be Columbia's meeting with Cornell at Ithaca. For the first time since football was restored to the curriculum at Columbia, the athletes of the late Percy D. Haughton will travel to Ithaca as at least an even money bet.

The eyes of the country will be on the Columbia eleven during this game. Fandom is watching with an intense interest how the Columbia eleven will perform in the face of the loss of their beloved coach, Percy D. Haughton.

Cornell's twin defeats at the hands of Yale and Rutgers had relegated the Doble machine to a low rating in the college world. Columbia's victory over Williams by an impressive 27 to 3 score should make Columbia the favorite over Cornell, considering that the Ithacans lost to Williams 11 to 7. But Cornell is always dangerous and with Columbia working under the handicap of having lost its leader, even his place by defeat, the outcome of this game is problematical now.

The football teams of Harvard, Yale and Columbia will remain idle, while the football services of Haughton are being held in Boston. Columbia will leave tonight for Ithaca, following services for the dead coach at the University chapel.

Manty and Murphy Meet in Moody Club Main Event—Other Events

After a week of charges and counter-charges, Billy Murphy of Lowell and Charley Manty of New Bedford will have a chance to definitely settle their argument in the ring at Crescent rink tonight when they meet in the main event of the Moody club card.

The little fuss started a couple of weeks ago when Manty, through his manager, Johnny Miller, sent a letter to Murphy declaring that he was slipping and that he would like to get another crack at him to repay the Lowell boy for past "favors." He further charged that a couple of the verdicts in favor of the Lowell boy were not according to the rules, but merely home town awards.

These accusations naturally got under the skin of the Lowell boy, and his manager, Johnny Miller, sent a letter to Manty declaring that he was slipping and that he would like to get another crack at him to repay the Lowell boy for past "favors." He further charged that a couple of the verdicts in favor of the Lowell boy were not according to the rules, but merely home town awards.

Manty and Murphy have been training diligently for the battle. Manty stepped into the ring last Monday night to add another victory to his list. He emerged from the encounter unscathed. Murphy has not fought since the Finnegan bout, but he has worked with his trainer, Jim Delaney, at his best for the "Whaletown" "jumping jack" this evening.

A large delegation of New Bedford fans will be on hand to cheer and support Manty. Needless to say, Murphy will not lack for rooters.

In the semi-final, Jim Delaney, a sporting partner of Young Manty, Hal Stevenson of Lawrence will tackle Joe Maria of Lowell, and Bud Jackson of Lawrence will clash with Pep Williams of South Boston.

Cal says his administration has brought more than average prosperity but Mr. Phil of the Red Sox refuses to believe him.

German politicians are trying to get the ex-royal prince to run for office, remembering what a good runner he was at the Marne.

All members of the Athletics are to have their lockets out. Isn't this rather curious treatment for dim-battling eyes?

Another sure sign of winter is the raucous squawk of the baseball manager demanding that the draft rules be scissored.

It may yet develop that the bell-boy plugged by four Brooklyn players committed the unpardonable crime of not having a cork-screw.

There may be nothing in a name but wouldn't it be too lovely for words if Coach Dille of Texas were handling the Springfield Cardinals this year?

Epiphany refused to stay for the New York horse show, being convinced American horses had made a big enough show of him already.

Once you get accustomed to a wining it is evidently hard to get along with out it. At any rate, we note Tommy Lipton wants to race again.

Pictures of ice skaters are breaking into the sport pages. And it seems but yesterday that Connie Mack was telling the business men's club of Monticomey he'd finished second.

Hearing that Red Grange has a younger brother playing football, Mr. Yost of Michigan commented simply, "Sufficient unto the day is the Grange thereof."

There is no commercialism in college football. Teams that travel half way across the continent to play in the Polo grounds merely have the business interests of the Pullman company in mind.

England plans a sport museum. Such interesting relics as Bomb Wells and Joe Beckett will occupy the main exhibit.

MICKEY WALKER WINS OVER JOCK MALONE

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 30.—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, won a newspaper decision over Jack Malone, St. Paul middleweight, in a 12-round bout in the 113th regiment armory here last night. Walker bested his opponent in every round.

In the face of a varied attack, Malone was on the defensive throughout the match. The champion launched a force assault in the last round which almost swept the St. Paul boxer off his feet.

Thursby, by winning 2 games for the Chicago White Sox, is said to have earned a substantial bonus.

George Chaney of Baltimore has a string of knockouts that reach the century mark.

Ed Garvey, former star tackle at Notre Dame, is in New York trying to get on as a professional boxer.

Jerry Travers, former open and amateur champion, was noted for his ability to concentrate.

Bill Melhorn, Missouri professional, has the biggest shoulders in golf. Melhorn used to be a hog-carrier.

Rumor has it that if Miller Huggins retires, Eddie Collins may go to the Yankees as manager.

It is said Cyril Walker made less money out of the open championship last summer than any player who ever held the title.

Certain ball manufacturers paid Walter Hagen $5000 in fees for playing with their special products last summer.

Dorrell Pratt, veteran infielder, is slated to be turned loose by Detroit. Pratt intends to take a college coaching when through in the majors.

In Lou Gehrig, the Yankees uncovered a slugging who rivals Babe Ruth. The Bambino has nicknamed Gehrig "Buster."

Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo is coming forward with a rush in the middleweight and light heavyweight division.

Two members of the National League staff of umpires, Quigley and Sweeney, are also football officials. Both are in demand for the big games.

Kente Rockens, famous Notre Dame coach, rates the late George Gipp as the greatest football player he ever saw. Real praise.

Homer Hazel of Rutgers, one of the greatest passers and kickers in the country, is showing the form that makes him look to be in for another big year. He was an All-America selection last season.

"THE TOWN THAT FORGOT GOD"
In order to accommodate all desiring to see "The Town That Forgot God," being presented at the C.M.A.C. hall in Pawtucket street by the League of the Sacred Heart of St. Joseph's parish, Rev. Louis N. Bachand, chaplain of the league has secured permission to run the picture again this evening. The presentation will be given at 8 o'clock and music will be furnished by Messrs. Gridiron Cossip

If the O.M.I. Cadets retrieve themselves in the game with the Shawshen A.A. on Sunday, they will go after their remaining opponents with a vengeance. Lowell fans should bear in mind that the O.M.I. boys are still champions of the city. They won the title by virtue of their victory over the Butler A.A. team a year ago. Until another team defeats them in a regulation game, they are still champions.

Danny O'Connor will direct the Cadet activities in Sunday's melee. Dan has cornered a few famous Dean academy boys and intends to throw them into the opposition in Sunday's clash. His brother, John, is playing the game of his life, while the other stars, Ed Curran, Artie Lough, F. and W. Coleman, Binkhorn, Mayo, Ray, Sheridan, Gaudin, Ellerson, Tardiff, Dickerson, Ryan and Pratus.

Cavanaugh, who starred on the high school team last season, has been added to the O.M.I. roster. He is a powerful defensive man. His addition to the Cadet front line bolsters the team and adds to the fact that they will be in there against the Shawshens.

"Red" O'Hare, brilliant quarterback and coach of the Butler A.A. claims his team will go through the present season undefeated. To date, the Butlers have won seven of their eight games and they didn't pick any easy ones, either.

The Franklins and the Riversides are down on the books for a game on the North common Sunday. They will get together before the Cadet-Shawshen game.

The North common will be roped off by a park department official. Competent officials will be in charge of affairs, while the police protection will be ample. The game will be anticipated and if each of the spectators gives but a dime, the management will have cause for satisfaction.

Once again, it is to be emphasized that football is a financial proposition. It is to be hoped that the local season will not witness a repetition of the collections taken during the game on the South common in recent years.

Lawrence high plays Cambridge Latin at O'Sullivan park in the down-river city Saturday, while Lowell entertains Concord at the city stadium. Both teams will start in the quarter-back position for Lowell.

Methuen high has run up a total of 12 straight victories. The team plays Quincy high Saturday.

The University of New Hampshire comes to town for a game with Lowell Textile Saturday.

The high school is receiving red hot lectures by Coaches Linton and Pleasant. The team is expected to show to advantage against Haverhill and Lawrence. It will not be long before the team will be in the position to see how they can keep the opposition's score, conditions may take on an agreeable change.

Several Lowell people will take in the Boston college-high school game on Saturday. In Levi, the Indians are reputed to have a second Jim Thorpe.

The Centralville Ponies have arranged a sweet attraction on the First street oval for next Sunday. They have contracted to play the Shamrocks, an eleven district. As any team known from that section of the city draws well in Centralville, the Shamrocks will be no exception. The Shamrocks will take place at 2.30 o'clock, and the management is preparing to look after a huge crowd.

While the Shamrocks are comparatively a new team under that name, it is understood that the team contains the name of some of the city's best known talent. The Ponies aren't taking any chances, and will start their best lineup. Clancy will be in the lineup for the first time in two weeks.

The Ponies are trying to go through the remainder of the season without a defeat being chalked against them. They certainly showed class in trimming the Butler independent last night. At the team meets the Kenwood Rovers on Thanksgiving day as a wind-up to the season, fans may look for an unusual treat.

After an enforced lay-off last Sunday, the Kenwood Rovers are in shape to battle the Parkvales of Lawrence Sunday. The Kenwood aggregation points to a win, although it is fully realized that the Parkvales are a dangerous force.

Tom Dorsey has created a favorable impression as a backfield man in the Rovers lineup. He originally played the line, but tried his luck as a ball carrier while at the Newport Naval Training station last year.

The O.M.I. Cadets and the Shawshen A.A. of Andover will do their stuff in the North common gridiron Sunday. Because of their humiliation in Peabody last week, the Cadets are practicing harder than ever. From good authority it is learned that the Cadets will be in the line-up in the first half of Sunday's game, but were put out of the running in the second and third chapters. That U.A.C. gang was composed of a group of ex-high school and ex-college stars, so that the Cadets have nothing to be ashamed of in the defeat. Cadet rooters are looking forward to a game with the Butler A.A. later on in the season.

Upper Gosham street fans would like nothing better than a tilt between the Butlers and the Indians. They say a pile of money will change hands if these stars meet, and it is understood to be soon.

The St. Peter's Cadets have had a week's lay-off but will be back in the running Sunday.

The St. Patrick's A.A. has accepted the challenge of the Mysteries and would like to play this team in the North common Saturday morning. The lineup is composed of Faucett, Caserly, Romansky, Fitzgerald, Ryan, Moriarty, Beauregard, King, Cote, Geary, Leavitt and Cavanaugh.

The Cumberland of West Centralville will hold practice this evening and also tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. New signals will be tried out and all players are asked to be present. George Jacoy and Willie Guallard have signed up with this outfit.

The manager of the Indians requests every member of the team to report

YOST PRAISES COACH LITTLE
For 23 years Coach Fielding Yost has been the real power in Michigan football. It has been a huge task to keep Michigan in the front rank all that time.

Not until he unearthed George Little did Yost feel he had an assistant capable of taking over his duties. He regards Little highly.

As director of all athletics at Michigan, Yost has his hands full. It is believed he will shortly retire as active head of football and that he will turn the job over to Little.

SOCCER GAME AT FORGE VILLAGE SUNDAY
A soccer football attraction of interest to fans in this vicinity is the proposed tilt between the Abbot Worthington Cadets, a school team with the Boston team, but it was learned at the last moment that Boston was scheduled for a National League game Sunday and has to comply with the rules. Sunday's game with Forge River was originally scheduled for Saturday, but was pushed a day ahead so as not to disappoint the large throng of Sunday patrons.

Murder of Another Chinese

Halts Negotiations to Bring Peace

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The murder of another Chinese today halted official negotiations in Chinatown which it had been hoped would end the Hip Sing-On Leong tong war.

The slain Chinese was Gee Ling of the Hip Sing Tong. The man, who was a building close to the headquarters of the On Leong on Dover street, which, with Mott street, comprises the On Leong domain which no Hip Sing is expected to enter.

Within earshot of the killing, the Chinese consul-general was conferring with a government official from Washington in an attempt to devise peace terms which would be acceptable to the warring tongmen. The negotiations were halted, temporarily at least.

Almost immediately the building where the shooting occurred was surrounded by the authorities and searched, but Gee Ling's slayer apparently had escaped over the rooftops.

DAWES IN FINAL ATTACK ON LA FOLLETTE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30. (By the Associated Press.) Charles G. Dawes, the republican candidate for vice president, traveled across Missouri today to St. Joseph to deliver tonight in the territory west of the Mississippi his final attack on the La Follette independent candidacy.

Commenting the present campaign to a boxing match, Mr. Dawes here last night declared that Senator La Follette, "like many people in a fight, had begun to weaken in about the 13th round," and added that "when a man attempts to explain in a fight it is an indication that he is beaten."

BIG DEMAND FOR OUTDOOR RELIEF

The demand for out-door relief upon the city charity department is increasing steadily and reached a record last week when 510 applications for provisions and fuel were made by persons out of work and dependent upon the city for their support.

Requests for monetary assistance upon the same department are also increasing steadily, due to the fact that many persons are being ordered out of the city to work and are unable to pay rent and seek aid of the city. The "cash allowance appropriation," from which is taken this type of relief, has been severely taxed, the demand jumping from $100 to $2000 a month within the past quarter.

The increase in demand for assistance has been gradual. In ordinary times, with the mills running on a regular schedule, a week in which 100 calls for aid were received would be termed a "bad week." Since 1920, however, there has been a gradual growth in the demand.

Under the present method of dispensing out-door relief, provisions and fuel valued at between $3 and $3.50 is given weekly to each applicant. Last week the city's relief department alone reached a total of well over $1000.

men drive through Oxford on the road leading to the old iron mine, on Sunday night about dusk. Both witnesses reported seeing burlap bags in the rear of the car.

The first observer of the car, Lewis Wildrick, township clerk, who lives in a quarter of a mile from the abandoned mine, reported that one of the men who was of slight build, he believes was Thomas. The other man, who was driving the car, had a light beard, wore a brown shirt, gray sweater and gray cap. The second observer, Delmar Green, reported the same appearance of the men and their clothing, and particularly noticed the burlap bags as the car passed his home on the main street.

With the principal suspect's suicide having closed that end of the case, the authorities today said they would continue their investigation to establish the identity of the second man in the automobile which they believe carried the woman's body to the spot where it was found beneath burlap bags Tuesday morning.

HELD FOR ATTEMPT TO EXTORT $5000

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—Salvatore Schiavone, a candy worker out of employment, who was arrested last night at a street corner as he took from a messenger bag a package supposedly containing $5000, was arraigned today on a charge of attempting to extort that amount of money from Henry G. Lapham, a millionaire under threats of death. The boy pleaded not guilty, and was held in lack of bonds of $10,000 for a further hearing on Nov. 11. The dummy package was given a messenger boy after receipt by Lapham of a letter mentioning the "Italian black hand" in which $25,000 were made for a telephone call, and after a demand was made by telephone for $5000 subsequently. Schiavone said he had read in a newspaper that Mr. Lapham, who recently gave a field clubhouse that cost $300,000 to Yale university, was worth $15,000,000.

"Slush Fund" Probers Order Chairman Grandy to Appear

main fund committee was inquiring into republican collections in the east today, acting Chairman Caraway announced he had received a telegram from George K. Morris, the republican vice chairman in New York, refusing to appear before the committee "except on certain stipulations."

"I wish to state that the committee is not making any stipulations or understanding with any witness," said Senator Caraway. "He can refuse to come if he wishes to take the consequences of refusal. I assume there is something he does not care to expose."

The senator explained further that the sergeant-at-arms of the senate had received a telegram yesterday from Mr. Morris "saying if he had to come he thought the representatives of the senate and the independent candidates ought to come also."

"I told the sergeant-at-arms that that would be done," continued Caraway. Now I have a telegram from Mr. Morris saying that he declines to come unless the Democratic and Independent representatives are here at the same time.

"Of course I am not willing to consent to any such demand, but I realize he is perfectly within his rights in asking that the others be called also."

Later Chairman Caraway interrupted the hearing to say:

"Perhaps my remark concerning Mr. Morris better not stand in fairness to him."

The chairman did not indicate whether he contemplated any further steps in the matter, but turned the committee's attention to collections in other states.

George Murnane of the New Trust Company, who said he was chairman of the bankers' group of the Greater New York Republican Campaign Fund committee, testified he himself had received $3000, and that the bankers' group as a whole raised $77,000. He declared that $10 was the largest amount contributed to him by a board chairman of a national bank in New York, although he had received $1000 from the chairman of the board of the bankers' trust and $500 from the president of the same bank.

Chairman Caraway turned the committee's attention to collections of advertisements appearing in the Daily News Record of New York, signed by business enterprises.

One of the advertisements carried a notice of a meeting to be held in the Metropolitan Opera house when Secretary Hughes was to address a meeting under the auspices of the New York business men's republican association. It ended with:

"Coolidge and Dawes."

"Up town dry goods association."

"Sponsored by: The American Woolen Company, the James J. Regan Manufacturing Company, William Whitman Company, Inc., Waterhouse Worsted Company, Parker, Wilder & Co., the Schwartz-Waelder Company and the United Worsted Corporation."

At the close of the forenoon session, W. L. Bourland, Republican National Committee counsel, requested that subpoenas be issued for Lee Shubert, New York theatrical producer; William Burgh, who was described at yesterday's hearing as being a representative of the McCutcheon-Gerson syndicate; and Cornelius Wood, vice president of the American Woolen Company. He asked that Ren McCutcheon of the syndicate appear before the Chicago section of the committee.

The attorney said testimony would be produced regarding the charge that a theatrical syndicate had offered to sell political influence in theatrical programs, adding that "Shubert had declined the charge was entirely false."

Wood will be asked to testify regarding the statement of Henry L.

SMOKE FUMES KILL FIREMAN

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30.—Captain Daniel H. Hogan of the local fire department died today in hospital as the result of smoke fumes inhaled at a fire in the plant of Swift & Co. Monday afternoon when fifteen firemen were overcome.

Ramm of Lawrence, Mass., that men had been dismissed by the American Woolen Company for supporting La Follette, Bourland added.

Other subpoenas issued at the request of the republican counsel were: Charles A. Storham, William J. McCormack and William Muldoon of New York who were requested to bring all correspondence relating to the $30,000 fund arising out of the Dempsey-Firpo fight.

Both identified with the democratic committee, were requested to bring all correspondence or documents relating to underwriting any deficit of the Democratic National committee.

Charles P. Morrow of New York was subpoenaed at the request of Frank P. Walsh, counsel for La Follette.

Letters Demanded

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press.) Through J. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, counsel for the Republican National committee sought to show today before the Chicago section of the campaign committee that the La Follette campaign was subsidized by the railroad brotherhoods.

Sheppard objected to being questioned regarding letters he had written to members of his order, including one to the board of Oakland, Calif., saying that he wanted protection from going into matters that might cause controversy within his organization.

Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for the Republican National committee, insisted on having the correspondence, saying that the railroad brotherhoods should be interested in getting at the facts and that he thought it would be interested. He added that he wanted to show that the railway labor organizations were interested in future legislation governing ownership of the railroads and laws affecting the use of the injunction in labor disputes.

Lawyers in Sharp Tilt

Samuel Untermyer, New York lawyer, and supporter of John W. Davis, objected and he and Kirkland had several sharp tilts with a result that Chairman Borah said that the committee might have to conduct the inquiry exclusively and independent of counsel, Senator Borah took over the examination.

Senator Borah pressed for the approximate total contributions of the seventeen labor organizations to the national campaign.

Sheppard said he had about thirty full time field workers throughout the country fighting for the independent candidates. Salaries and expenses of these groups were paid from the "protective fund" of the railroad organizations to which each member contributed $2 annually.

"Can you tell us how much you have spent in this campaign?" asked Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota.

"Your budget calls for $20,000 for presidential, congressional and state," Sheppard said.

Refuses to Answer Question

"Your campaign is a non-partisan campaign," Sheppard persisted.

"Absolutely," Sheppard said, adding that the organization had endorsed neither democrats and republicans for the house and senate.

"We endorsed senator La Follette," he added, "because we could not get satisfaction from the two old parties."

"It is not the intention of the committee to go into the private internal affairs of your organization," Senator Borah said. "What the committee does want to get at is any legitimate matters pertaining to the campaign."

Kirkland asked the witness if on Sept. 20 he wrote a letter to H. D. Drow at Lawrence, Mass.

"I decline to answer," Sheppard said.

"I am a writer, a publisher of German language newspapers in Omaha, and I am a German citizen. I have entered into an arrangement with the republican national committee to distribute his papers among the German speaking population in Iowa, Minnesota and south Dakota, where there are no republican German language newspapers."

Undermyer was to send out 200,000 copies and had received $10,000 from the republican committee and that $2500 more is due.

Untermyer wanted to know about the circulation of Peter's paper.

"I refuse to answer," Peter said. "I stand on my rights as a citizen and a business man."

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Stock prices moved irregularly higher at the opening of today's market, the conservative section being regarded as a favorable influence. H. R. Mallinson moved up a point to 2 3/4, a new high on the movement. Ralls continued to reflect the unusually favorable September earnings statements and also responded favorably to the ninth successive week's decrease in crude production.

Heavy selling of the sugar shares, based on unfavorable trade news, failed to unsettle the rest of the list. American Sugar Refining common dropped 1 1/2 to 38 and the preferred 2 1/2 to 7 1/2, each at new low prices for the year. Other sugars yielded fractional gains. Chicago Yellow Cab, under pressure early in the week, rallied 2 1/2 while American Can, Mack Truck, Union Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio preferred sold a point or more above last night's closing quotations.

Marked strength of steeling exchange in reflection of the conservative victory in the British elections featured the foreign exchange market. Other European exchanges showed slight improvement.

Lowering of the renewal rate in call money to 2 per cent stimulated short covering in the late morning, and the general list swung upward under the leadership of standard industrial shares. British demonstrations were most pronounced in the merchandising issues. Sears-Roebuck rose 1/4 to 11 1/4, the highest price since the declaration of a 40 per cent stock dividend in 1920. United Drug touched a new 1924 high at 101 1/2 up 1/2. American Tobacco B, Inland Steel preferred, American Smelting, preferred also sold at their best prices of the year. A feature of the railroad group was the brisk demand for the Pittsburgh & West Virginia 3 1/2 which moved up 1/4 points to a record top at 11. Good gains also were recorded by General Electric, Allis Chalmers, United States Steel Pipe and Atlantic Refining.

The accumulation of certain stocks had a tonic effect on the market, which had a lull in the afternoon, buying becoming more varied with a number of ordinarily choice shares moving up briskly. Railroads, however, were neglected to a large extent, although some of the dividend-paying issues were lower.

American Can got up to 13 1/2 and Sears-Roebuck to 12 1/4. Yellow Cab Manufacturing, however, was driven down to 37 1/2, a new low.

The closing was strong. Decided gains were registered by a score of stocks in the last hour, when the highest levels of the day generally were reached. Atlantic Coast Line, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Associated Dry Goods, Worthington Pump, Davison Chemical and a normal Radiator were marked up 2 to 3 points.

ELECTION HELPS EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Heavy buying of sterling exchange in the London market followed the news of the big conservative victory in the British elections, the local demand rate moving up 1/4 cents to 4 1/2, the highest in several months. In view of the unusually heavy grain and oil exports, the advance was regarded by foreign exchange dealers as impressive.

DAVIS SHARPLY RAPS COOLIDGE SPEECH ON FOREIGN POLICY

Challenges President's View on Powers of Congress—
Calls Navy Treaty, as it Stands, Very Unfortunate—Takes Fling at Hughes

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes were singled out last night for a direct attack by John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, when he answered speeches delivered by them last Thursday and pointedly replied to definitions they gave of the administration's foreign policy.

Speaking at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, Mr. Davis declared he would replace "sporadic, exceptional and casual" international conferences with "a system of organic, regular and periodic conferences, whose coming together will not depend upon the passing whim of any nation, but which will be a part of the ordered life of the world."

"This is a vital question," Mr. Davis said. "Of far greater consequence than any matter of machinery or the language of any particular conference. It marks the whole difference between the old world, with its dreary record of appalling disaster, and the new world, with its promise of a better day."

"And to this coming change which will separate the future from the past," Mr. Davis added, "the president is obviously blind or deliberately hostile."

Mockery of Language

The candidate read numerous excerpts from the addresses of President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes. The president's statement that "we propose to continue our efforts to promote international justice under international law, through international conferences, advancing always towards the goal of outlawing aggressive war" was analyzed in this way:

"To call such a statement 'well defined' is to make mockery of the English language. Just such a statement might have been made by any nation in all the globe at any time within the last thousand years. As a lamp for the 20th century it throws little light upon the highway."

Secretary Hughes' "defense" of the Washington conference was replied to, Mr. Davis explaining that it had never been his intention to "belittle" the conference, but rather to "clear the public mind of the gross exaggerations with which political artifice has intentionally surrounded its results."

"Surely Mr. Hughes must know," the candidate added at this point, "that of the four major treaties to which it gave birth, those which deal with the use of submarine and noxious gases in warfare and with territorial integrity in China and the open door, have not yet in effect because of the failure of this date of France to ratify the same."

Effect of Arms Conference

Mr. Davis called attention to the naval treaty, pointing out that naval rivalry between the United States and Great Britain has been at the secretary of the navy himself to be no better than that of four to five, while other naval experts insist that it is no better than two or two and one-half to five.

"Whatever may rightfully be said in praise of the Washington conference as a beginning," Mr. Davis said, "it is impossible to escape the conclusion that if we are to go no further, it will constitute a most unfortunate ending."

"If the peace of the world is to rest in the future as it has done in the past upon force, if each nation is to rely for protection upon its weight of armaments, then as a result of this Washington conference our security has been made unquestionably less secure. Unless we are willing to press on and lend our aid to the cause of general disarmament, and the world people a chance for its consideration and arbitration as a substitute for force, it might well have been better for us had we never made this initial advance."

Retardation on League

"Hardly less happy is the secretary when he comes to interpret the meaning of the democratic platform on the subject of international relations and the league. Since his previous efforts on his part in the interpretation of party platforms, one may be pardoned a certain skepticism as to his skill as an interpreter."

If he will spend the necessary time to read the democratic platform, he will find there a declared purpose to lift, if possible, the great question of America's relation to the League of Nations out of the quagmire of party politics, and to give the American people a chance for its consideration free from the unrelated contentions of a political campaign.

"There may be those who for fancied political advantage would oppose this purpose, but most Americans, I believe, whether friends or foes of the league, regret that it became the sport of partisanship, and are eager to raise the question from that plane. No true friend of the league wishes to have the United States enter by trickery or evasion, neither by the side door, nor back door but, if at all, publicly, firmly and honestly, with the full dignity of the United States and its standing in the world. They have the promise of the democratic party to this effect, and an assurance that we will officially participate in any conference called to deal with world affairs."

Takes Up Coolidge Speech

Referring to another statement contained in the president's address—explaining that the administration has abstained from joining the League of Nations "mainly for the purpose of avoiding political entanglements and committing ourselves to the assumption of the obligation of others"—Mr. Davis said:

"Presumably, the president meant to intimate that we not only have abstained but will continue to abstain from the League of Nations; and having closed his mind and his memory as well, since otherwise he would recall that even were the United States a member, it could be committed to no entanglement or assumption of the obligations of others without its affirmative vote and consent. If we abstain 'mainly' for the reasons assigned by the president, it would be interesting to know what other reasons are in his mind which support these main considerations."

"It cannot be his belief in the fiction that the election of 1920 was decisive of the question, for this he himself was prompt to disavow before that year had closed. Perhaps they are of the same indefinable character as those that have influenced his secretary of state to abandon his position so boldly assumed in the famous manifesto of the 31 prior to the election under which Mr. Coolidge holds his office."

Limits on Congress

"The second proposition is the statement that 'under our constitution we cannot, by treaty, pledge or limit the future action of the congress.'"

"This is news indeed and, if true, the nations of the world may well hesitate before entering into any agreement with the American government. The Washington conference, which the president prides so highly, agreed that we would not fortify the islands of the Pacific and that we would not increase our tonnage in capital battleships beyond a stated figure. Are we to be told now that these agreements did not in any way 'pledge or limit the future action of congress'? If so, why were they entered into and what did the Washington conference accomplish if these agreements were nothing more than an exchange of polite notes?"

It is thus that the line among the nations of the world, the United States can make no covenant relating to the future, and that the hundreds of treaties we have made are but scraps of paper?"

The Heart of the Problem

The president's comments upon the world court were challenged by Mr. Davis, who then turned to the announcement made by the chief executive regarding the commitment of the administration "to the policy of international conferences, as specific occasions arise."

"Evidently without realizing it," Mr. Davis said, "the president approaches here the heart of the great problem that lies before the civilized world. That question is no less than this: Shall international conferences continue to be sporadic, exceptional and casual in the intercourse of nations, or shall they be a part of the regular, systematic, organized, day-to-day life of the world?"

"Sporadic conferences have been resorted to as far back as history runs. There is no promise from the past of continuing this system, and no assurance for the future. It is the ambition of all forward-looking men to substitute in its place a system of organic, regular and periodic conferences, whose coming together will depend upon the passing whim of any nation but which will be a part of the ordered life of the world."

In turning to the statement of Mr. Coolidge that he favored constitutional "covenants which would look to the outlawing of aggressive war," Mr. Davis said "here again definition has run mad."

"What is aggressive war?" he asked. "What are constitutional covenants to outlaw it? Has the president any definition to give to those wars which should be outlawed as distinct from those which are not? Where would he draw the line between defense and aggression? What nation can he point to that has ever confessed to the waging of an aggressive war?"

"There is no promise to accept the protocol just proposed at Geneva, which makes the test of aggression the unwillingness of a belligerent to submit to preliminary inquiry or arbitration? What does he propose to add, if anything, to the 35 or more treaties negotiated by Mr. Bryan, secretary of state, which had this end in view? How would he square his theory with his earlier declaration that we cannot by treaty pledge or limit the future action of a congress?"

Asks Coolidge to Explain

"If the congress of the United States, having the sole power to declare war, cannot be pledged or limited, as he says by any treaty, how will it fit his point of view to divide wars into classes, limiting congress as to some but leaving it free as to others? Will the president tell us in what manner he proposes to effect his outlawry?"

"To 'outlaw' any course of conduct means to put it under the ban of some existing law. Where is this law to be found? How are we to attain it except by international agreement? How are these agreements to be regarded if they do not bind the nations who make them?"

"A candid consideration addressed to the president's line of summary shows the pretense that we have a 'well-defined foreign policy'; unless, indeed, that policy is one of pure negation. It is reassuring to be told that 'we have maintained our ancient traditions.' This is a rather compelling favor, but the tradition of moral leadership can hardly have been among those in the president's mind."

Every Member of This Family Has Received Benefit From Father John's Medicine—They Say It Is the Greatest Body Builder

The mother of this splendid family says that when two of the children had bronchitis, she gave them Father John's Medicine and it gave them relief. At other times, when other members of the family had a cold, she has given them Father John's Medicine with equally good results. "When they have a cold they want nothing but Father John's Medicine," and we think it is the best medicine we ever took," she says. The father is from Mrs. Louis Valley, of Seymour, Conn., and her experience is the same as that of thousands of mothers in every section of the country, who have come to depend on Father John's Medicine as the standard family medicine for colds, coughs, croup, whooping cough, and all other dangerous diseases and has been successfully used for many years. In turning to the statement of Mr. Coolidge that he favored constitutional "covenants which would look to the outlawing of aggressive war," Mr. Davis said "here again definition has run mad."

"What is aggressive war?" he asked. "What are constitutional covenants to outlaw it? Has the president any definition to give to those wars which should be outlawed as distinct from those which are not? Where would he draw the line between defense and aggression? What nation can he point to that has ever confessed to the waging of an aggressive war?"

"There is no promise to accept the protocol just proposed at Geneva, which makes the test of aggression the unwillingness of a belligerent to submit to preliminary inquiry or arbitration? What does he propose to add, if anything, to the 35 or more treaties negotiated by Mr. Bryan, secretary of state, which had this end in view? How would he square his theory with his earlier declaration that we cannot by treaty pledge or limit the future action of a congress?"

Asks Coolidge to Explain

"If the congress of the United States, having the sole power to declare war, cannot be pledged or limited, as he says by any treaty, how will it fit his point of view to divide wars into classes, limiting congress as to some but leaving it free as to others? Will the president tell us in what manner he proposes to effect his outlawry?"

"To 'outlaw' any course of conduct means to put it under the ban of some existing law. Where is this law to be found? How are we to attain it except by international agreement? How are these agreements to be regarded if they do not bind the nations who make them?"

"A candid consideration addressed to the president's line of summary shows the pretense that we have a 'well-defined foreign policy'; unless, indeed, that policy is one of pure negation. It is reassuring to be told that 'we have maintained our ancient traditions.' This is a rather compelling favor, but the tradition of moral leadership can hardly have been among those in the president's mind."

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—The funeral of Percy D. Haughton, coach of football at Columbia university, when he died last Monday, will be held this afternoon, with steps of the gridiron from Harvard and Columbia joining with relatives, friends and associates in business and sport in attendance. At Harvard where he brought football from a slough of defeat to the heights of victory as coach after a career as a student star on the gridiron, and diamond, and at Columbia where in two seasons his guidance developed a winning team, football activities for the day will be stilling as a mark of respect.

Bishop William Lawrence will officiate at the funeral services in St. Paul's cathedral, assisted by Rev. Sherrard Billings of Groton, where Haughton prepared for college. The funeral choir will sing "The Star of Bethlehem" and "The Lord's Prayer." Those who shared Haughton's coaching labors at Harvard and Columbia, and those who were the products of his system of instruction will be among the honorary pall bearers. Official delegations will represent each university. Burial will be in the family lot in Mount Auburn cemetery.

The official representatives of Harvard at the funeral, it was announced today, will be Charles Francis Adams, treasurer of the university; Dean Chester N. ALL HUNTERS ORDERED OUT OF N. Y. WOODS

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—A proclamation of Gov. Smith ordering all hunters out of the state forests because of the present serious fire hazard, was issued today by Alexander MacDonell, state conservation commissioner.

John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, for the purpose of summing up the outstanding campaign issues was made public today. It was confined exclusively to a discussion of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill which the candidate has declared will be rewritten if he is elected and is given the support of a democratic congress, thus effecting a reduction of tariff rates.

In renewing his promise for clear schedules, Mr. Davis made it clear that he harbored no resentment toward legitimate business fairly conducted but would "withdraw the invitation extended by the force of exorbitant rates of duty, to profit through monopolistic control of production, markets and prices."

President Coolidge Satisfied

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—President Coolidge will soon be in a position to determine upon the selection of a successor to the late Secretary Wallace.

Few political engagements are on the president's list between now and election day, and he has indicated to his friends he will take practically no further active part in the campaign, feeling satisfied with the progress made.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN AND LABOR LEADERS CALLED TO TESTIFY

Witnesses Questioned on Charges Regarding "Bribery of Labor Leaders"—Hearings Held in Washington and Chicago

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Chairmen of republican state committees in the east and labor leaders were summoned to appear in the effort of the Washington section of the senate committee investigating campaign funds to delve into reports of the use of large sums for swaying elections. W. H. Stead, district chairman of the United Association of Railway Employees and Otto Bland, president of the shop crafts of the Northwestern Railway company, were subpoenaed at the request of Frank P. Walsh of La Follette counsel, who told the committee they could testify regarding "bribery of labor leaders."

The eastern state republican chairmen were called for questioning about collections in their states, in which the La Follette organization has charged great sums have been raised for use in the western states.

The committee plans to adjourn Friday until after the election, but before adjournment it has been asked by counsel for the Republican National committee to permit the present evidence which they claim will show that the La Follette organization is spending "enormous sums" in the campaign.

La Follette Expenditures

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—More light on expenditures on behalf of the La Follette Wheeler national ticket, as well as on behalf of the Coolidge-Davies slate was sought today by the Chicago section of the senate campaign fund investigating committee.

L. R. Sheppard, president of the order of railway conductors; Warren S. Smith, president of the brotherhood of locomotive engineers; and John M. Nelson, national director of the La Follette campaign, were among those from whom the sub-committee sought information about sums spent in the independent presidential campaign.

Frank M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National committee; Frank L. Smith, republican state chairman for Illinois, and George Barr Baker, director of the republican committee's publicity bureau, were on hand for questioning regarding the financing of the Coolidge-Davies campaign.

Also the sub-committee sought details as to monies returned to or sent into states by the Republican National committee to aid in state and senatorial and congressional campaigns.

William V. Hodges, treasurer of the Republican National committee and the first witness at the opening of the hearings in Chicago yesterday, had promised to supply those figures. He testified that collections by the national committee up to October 28 had been $2,000,000, of which $750,000 had been returned to the contributing states.

J. Henry Koraback, republican national committeeman for Connecticut, the first witness called, testified that the republican committee in this state had received $25,000 to $30,000 additional from the Connecticut ways and means committee. The national committee, he said, had not set a definite amount to be raised in Connecticut, but had asked him to "get all he could for them."

During cross-examination, the witness said part of the money was to be used in taking voters to the polls.

Henry Rogers Winthrop, New York, chairman of the republican national senatorial committee, testified he had received $13,044.57 and had spent $7,981.25. The national committee contributed $106,000 of the total.

William Skinner, a silk manufacturer of New York, told the committee that he had collected $34,000 for the republican fund from silk, cotton and wool manufacturers of New York city. He said he had $3000 on hand

Will Use Machines Until Snow Flies

Lowell's motorcycle police squad will remain on the streets of the city and adjoining highways until the snow flies, announced Acting Superintendent of Police Hugh Downey today.

Because of the increased automobile accidents in West Sixth street, Motorcycle Officer Bernard J. Judge has been detailed to watch that thoroughfare for speedsters during no-school hours. Due to a smoothly paved roadway, motorists have been yielding to the temptation to hit it up on this street, and residents requested police vigilance.

EARLY ELECTION RETURNS HERE TUESDAY

New Fire Headquarters Badly Needed

FIFTY-FIVE AUTOMOBILES WERE STOLEN HERE THIS YEAR

Forty-seven of the Fifty-five Machines Recovered by the Local Police—April Was Biggest Month of Thefts—Motorists Warned to Be on Their Guard

From January 1 up to the present time, 55 pleasure automobiles have been returned to their owners, as often police activity has resulted in the recovery of 47 of the stolen cars. The record number of machines unlawfully appropriated since the first of the year has led the police, through the criminal investigation bureau under Capt. David Petrie, to issue a warning to motorists to be on their guard for the remainder of the year. While the police books record eight of the missing cars to be unrecovered, it is probable that some of these have been returned to their owners, as often happens, without being reported to the authorities. Notwithstanding the fact that the majority of the cars have been recovered, not all of them have been found in the condition the owner left them. For instance, one expensive machine was totally burned, while several others were completely or partially dismantled or wrecked. During the present year, the biggest month of thefts was April, when 14 vehicles were stolen, most of them at

HUSBAND OF MURDER VICTIM HANGS HIMSELF IN JAIL

Frank Thomas, Held as Material Witness in Slaying of His Wife, Ends Life in Belvidere, N. J. Jail—Body Found By Warden Today

BELVIDERE, N. J., Oct. 30.—The body of Frank Thomas, held in jail here as a material witness in the slaying of his wife, Mrs. Grace Thomas, was found hanging in his cell in the Warren county jail here today, by Warden Smith. Thomas had hanged himself by his suspenders. The body of his wife was found in an abandoned iron mine near Oxford on Tuesday. Thomas was to have been transferred to the Flemington jail in Hunterdon county today where Prosecutor Miller, it is said, planned to formally charge him with murder. Authorities investigating the murder of Mrs. Thomas, in connection with which her husband had been held without bail, said today that two witnesses had told them of seeing a dilapidated automobile containing two men drive through Oxford on the road leading to the old iron mine, on Sunday night about dusk. Both witnesses reported seeing burlap bags in the rear of the car. The first observer of the car, Lewis Wildrick, township clerk, who lives a quarter of a mile from the abandoned mine hole, reported that one of the men, who was of slight build, he believed was Thomas. The other man, who was driving the car, had a light beard, wore a brown shirt, gray sweater and gray cap. The second observer, Delmar Green, reported the same appearance of the men and their clothing, and particularly noticed the burlap bags as the car passed his home on the main street. With the principal suspect's suicide having closed that end of the case, the authorities today said they would continue their investigation to establish the identity of the second man in the automobile which they believe carried the woman's body to the spot where it was found beneath burlap bags Tuesday morning.

G. O. P. STATE CHAIRMAN REFUSES TO APPEAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—While the Washington end of the senate campaign fund committee was inquiring into republican collections in the east today, acting Chairman Curaway announced he had received a telegram from George K. Morris, the republican state chairman in New York, refusing to appear before the committee "except on certain stipulations." "I wish to state that the committee is not making any stipulations or understanding with any witness," said Senator Curaway. "He can refuse to come if he wishes to take the consequences of refusal. I assume there is something he does not care to expose."

FIFTH VICTIM OF GAS POISONING

Herbert Fuson, 29, Died in the Reconstruction Hospital This Morning

Despite Tireless Search for Antidote Death List Continues to Increase

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—A fifth victim of the mysterious gas poisoning in the research laboratory of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey at Bayway, N. J., died in Reconstruction hospital today.

Herbert Fuson, 29 years old, of Elizabeth, was the fifth man to die. He had been near death from the inroads of the gas for more than three days. Despite the tireless search of physicians for an antidote that would check the fatal progress of the strange poisoning, the death list has gradually increased since Monday. The last three victims have died at about the same hour on three successive mornings, all of them becoming violent before death. Fuson was the last of the first five men brought to Reconstruction hospital. Eleven additional men suffering from the strange poisoning were brought to the hospital last night, bringing the total number of men afflicted to date to 33. All the surviving victims are still in the hospital. Announcement by doctors at the hospital yesterday that an antidote had been discovered for the dread gas, brought hope to the families of the sufferers whose alarm earlier in the day had been heightened by the death of William Kresge, 29. Dr. Tourt, physician in charge of the gas patients, was given credit for the discovery which was said to involve the injection of hyposulphite of soda into the veins of the sufferers. That the federal government will take a hand in the investigation was revealed by an announcement that experts of the bureau of mines will arrive this morning to study the nature of the gas, and try to develop remedial methods which will avert disaster to those who have been exposed.

FIRST EXECUTION IN SWITZERLAND FOR 22 YEARS

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 30.—The death penalty was inflicted yesterday in Switzerland for the first time in 22 years, at Aldorf, capital of the canton of Uri, when Clement Bernet was guillotined for the murder of a young girl who surprised him while in the act of burglary.

Bernet was the least concerned person at the execution. Becoming converted while in prison, he refused an appeal for commutation and, as he approached the scaffold, he tore the black hood from his head, exclaiming: "My victim stared death in the face; it is but just that I do likewise."

Jury Returns Verdict of Guilty After Being Out About an Hour and Half

Girl Teacher Slain on Way Home From School—Body Buried in Woods

ELLSWORTH, Me., Oct. 30.—Roland McDonald, who shot and killed his teacher, Miss Louise Gerrish, at Amherst, last May, was found guilty of murder today by a jury in the superior court. The jury was out about an hour and a half. The defense had presented only two witnesses, alienists, who testified that the 16-year-old boy was not fully developed mentally although "sane enough to realize the wrongness of his act." The parents of McDonald broke down when the verdict was announced. The boy himself showed little concern. Miss Gerrish, a 10-year-old girl, was shot down on her way home from school. The body was buried in the woods. McDonald was arrested after he had paid for candy with a dollar bill identified as having been in her purse.

Police Start Drive to Regulate Auto Parking in Merrimack Street

The police traffic department today began a drive to eliminate unreasonable parking of automobiles in Merrimack street between Central and Dutton streets, in which area it is desirable that no machines are left for long periods of time. Traffic Officer John T. Whelan was assigned to this area this morning by Sergeant Edward J. Connors and made hourly inspection tours checking up on cars that seemed to be permanently parked on either side of the street. Sergeant Connors expressed the belief that the drive would be successful.

CHIEF SAUNDERS SAYS NEW FIRE HEADQUARTERS BADLY NEEDED

Too Much Traffic in Vicinity of Present Location to Permit of Quick Egress From House—Difficult For Big Apparatus to Respond Quickly to Alarms

A new fire headquarters building will be an absolute necessity within a very short time to house a new alarm system and to remove the central station fire apparatus to a place where egress from the house will not be blocked by traffic-crowded streets, according to Fire Chief Edward P. Saunders.

The parking and traffic problem around the central fire station at Middle and Palmer streets has become so acute within the past year or so, said the chief, that at times it is almost impossible to get the big apparatus out in response to alarms without crashing into automobiles, and necessarily there is some delay while the driver maneuvers his apparatus around parked machines. The apparatus, once out of the house, is also hindered to a great extent by heavy traffic, which cannot pull out of the way owing to the fact that the sides of the main streets are filled to capacity with parked machines.

At times according to the chief, especially on Saturday evenings and during the rush hours daily, the downtown streets are almost impassable for fire apparatus, and as machines from the central station must answer nearly every alarm sounded, fires have an opportunity to gain great headway while the apparatus is being delayed along the way owing to traffic congestion. While not in a position to make a positive recommendation as to the possible site for a new headquarters building, the chief said he favored erecting a modern fire-proof building in French street in the rear of the high school annex. At the present time all but a small section of the square formed by French, Mohr, Kirk and Paige street is owned by the city and occupied by city buildings, and if the remaining corporation tenement houses in this square were torn down and a fire station erected, the whole square would belong to the city. This location is favored by the chief on the ground that apparatus from the Central station would be able to get onto Merrimack or Bridge street by way of wide roads where traffic is much lighter than where the house is at present. In connection with the fire alarm system, the chief said this matter has been hanging fire for a long time and sooner or later a new system will have to be purchased for the present system is antiquated and likely to get out of order at any time. Steps towards preparing the cables and boxes for the new central system have already been taken. During the past year or so, the old "bell" type boxes have required many of the old type boxes and several of the new cable have been laid by the wire crew of the department under Capt. Thomas Conway. This work will continue until the cable and boxes throughout the city are all in first class condition and then must stop, awaiting the construction of a new central system.

VOTES IN THREE MAJOR CONTESTS TO BE COUNTED FIRST IN TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS

In order that the general public may receive information at as early an hour as possible as to the fortunes of candidates in the three major contests in next Tuesday's elections, the Lowell election commissioners will instruct precinct officers to first tabulate the votes for president, governor and United States senator before proceeding with the rest of the long ballot. The moment these tallies are complete in each precinct the figures will be telephoned to the commission's office at city hall and at once made public to newspapers for further distribution as news.

Unless some such scheme was put into effect no returns would be available until a very late hour, but with the counting first of the votes cast for president, governor and senator a fair idea will be gained of how the city is going in regard to these three major contests.

CRUSHING DEFEAT FOR LABOR GOVERNMENT IN GREAT BRITAIN

Conservative Party Returned to Power in Parliament with One of Strongest Majorities Recorded During Last Century—Liberal Party Swamped

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press) The people of Great Britain have put a crushing end to their first experiment with a Labor government by returning the Conservative party to power in Parliament with one of the strongest majorities recorded during the last century. In this sweeping political change, the Liberal party has sunk to the weakest position it has experienced since the alignment of British political parties more than ninety years ago at the time of the reform bill. With 515 out of the 515 seats in the House of Commons accounted for at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the Liberals had won only 77 and the Conservatives had captured 437 and were increasing their lead constantly as the returns came in from the country districts. Labor had won 137 seats and was thus assured of being the official opposition party in the new parliament.

Latest Returns
The standing of the parties at 4.30 o'clock was:
Conservatives, 373.
Labor, 138.
Liberals, 35.
Other parties, 12.
Total, 561.
Women fared rather badly in the constituencies thus far making declarations. Lady Astor added another victory to her laurels as candidate.

PLAN WEDDING TO PROTECT GIRL'S MOTHER

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 30.—Plans for a formal marriage, the purpose of which was to enable the bride's mother to obtain a legacy, became known with the filing of marriage intentions here by Richard Wall, son of Justice William C. Wall of the supreme court, and Miss Frances Osburn of Cambridge. Wall is a graduate student at Harvard.

In his will Henry Osburn, Miss Osburn's grandfather, provided that she should share equally in the estate with her father's sisters and that she or her husband should receive a yearly income. No provision was made for the girl's mother. On the death of Miss Osburn or her husband, the will stipulated, this income will revert to the estate. Wall and Miss Osburn explained that their purpose in planning to marry at this time was to protect Miss Osburn's mother and permit her to enjoy the income provided in the will.

A civil ceremony will be performed they said, after which Wall will continue his studies at Harvard and Miss

Osburn her work in an advertising office. At the end of the college year next June a church ceremony is planned, they said.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT

A novel entertainment known as a "Feet, Feats and Features" party was held in the gymnasium of the church of All Nations last evening by the Epworth league of the church. A most enjoyable time was had by the large gathering present and an impromptu Halloween program was given by those present. Rev. H. J. Skorik, Miss Helen Normandale and Miss Alberta Ryder were in charge of the affair.

They and their friends danced to music by Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra that evening. ¶Now, they wonder how they ever got along without Victrola, and without the unequalled Victor entertainment of which we send them news at regular intervals. ¶They kept putting off the day when they would have an instrument of Victor manufacture, because they thought they weren't ready to spend the money. ¶We showed them how they wouldn't gain by waiting. We have a plan that cares for that end of it. Find out about it.

SAYS DAYLIGHT LAW IS BAD ALL ROUND

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—Repeat of daylight saving is "a curse both to consumer and farmer," is urged by Charles W. Young of Fall River, a director of the Massachusetts Standard Time League and advisor to leading agriculturalists of the state.

"The loss to the fruit industry in Massachusetts caused by daylight saving is $1,000,000 a year," said Mr. Young. "There are other enormous losses, but that is for fruit alone. Fruit should be picked when the sun is shining, and under daylight saving the hours of labor are such that the fruit must be picked while wet, unless the farmer is willing to suffer a loss by not picking his men to work in early morning fog and dew. This causes shrinkage and deterioration, and means 35 cents a box for berries that used to sell two boxes for 25 cents."

"Does the farmer get the extra money?" he does not, it goes to the marketman and store-keeper to defray the cost of shrinkage and waste caused by the moisture.

"Daylight saving is a curse to the consumer, because he must pay the extra cost of daylight saving, and the resulting loss to the city government of more than $3,000,000 annually. The only type of farmer benefited by daylight saving is the roadside farmer—the sort that buys his goods from city markets and sells them at fancy prices to unsophisticated autoists like a farmer in Bolton, who sold Michigan peaches at $3 a basket where there wasn't a native peach in the state."

QUICK RESULTS FROM SUN AD

Belle Corbett, daughter of Rep. and Mrs. Thomas J. Corbett, of 361 Concord street, is happy as the result of the success obtained from a classified ad in The Sun.

Last week Miss Corbett's pet Boston terrier disappeared from home. She searched the neighborhood in vain for the dog. Her father then telephoned The Sun to insert a lost ad, ordering it to run for three days.

The ad appeared in the paper for the first time on Tuesday afternoon. That evening a telephone call brought the good news that the dog had been found, and yesterday the little pet was returned to its owner.

Rep. Corbett called The Sun today to order the ad discontinued and to extend congratulations upon the results obtained.

REPAIRING THE OLD DURKEE HOUSE

The exterior of the Durkee house, an historical landmark located on water department land off upper Varnum avenue, has been repaired by employees of the lands and buildings department.

The old building, which was in the process of disintegration, for many years, has been repaired to the original condition. The exterior of the building, which was in the process of disintegration, for many years, has been repaired to the original condition. The exterior of the building, which was in the process of disintegration, for many years, has been repaired to the original condition.

For months employees of the lands and buildings department have labored on the old Durkee house and as a result of their efforts the old shed in the rear of the building, which had been torn down by former occupants, has been restored; the vestibule in front, which suffered a like fate at the hands of former occupants, has been restored; the stone foundation has been pointed up; the exterior walls and flooring have been straightened, repaired and shingles placed on the roof; the roof has been repaired and re-shingled and new windows, casings and outer doors have been put in place.

Agitation for the restoration of the old Durkee house has been going on for many years, but it was not until last year that definite steps were taken for its reconstruction.

Local historical societies brought the matter before the city government and the architects of this city were requested as a body to draw up plans for the restoration work so that the completed building would be similar to the original house.

After months of research work, the architects presented a plan calling for the expenditure of $12,000, which would restore the building to practically its original shape. This plan was accepted and an appropriation of $4000 voted for this year's part of the work. Of this appropriation nearly $1000 remains and this will be expended in painting the exterior and doing part of the interior work.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY SATURDAY EVENING

date for the Sullion division of Plymouth, but at a late hour the only man elected to keep her company was Miss Wilkinson, laborite from Middleboro, east.

In addition to Miss Margaret Bondfield, member for Northampton in the last parliament and also a member of the National government, the family group in the house included the loss of Miss Susan Lawrence, laborite who was defeated in Bathurst, north, by the male conservative candidate, Attorney-General Patrick Hastings, whose conduct of the Campbell prosecution was perhaps the most important indirect cause of the downfall of the labor government, retained his seat at Walsend, polling 17,215 votes against 15,672 for his conservative opponent, S. Howard.

During the hour London devotes to lunch the tory tide ran stronger and stronger the conservatives acquiring in one hour almost as many seats as which the liberals and laborites held in the last parliament. Moreover they held firm in the territory which had always been theirs, neither the laborites nor the liberals making a single gain at their expenses.

The only change during this period which was not charged to conservatism, was scored by the laborite, J. Beckett, at Gateshead, where he defeated Captain Hilton Phillips, liberal, for a seat which the liberals held in the last parliament.

The strength of the swing towards conservatism was indicated even where the conservatives failed to oust their opponents.

In the crushing collapse of the liberal strength everywhere, Mrs. Margaret Wintlingham, who was the first woman to follow in the footsteps of Lady Asquith into the house of commons last her seat.

Sir John Simon kept his Yorkshire seat while all around his other liberals were losing theirs. Sir Robert Horne, former chancellor of the exchequer, was re-elected in the Millhead division.

James Brown, the Ayrshire miner whom Prime Minister MacDonald made lord high commissioner for the church of Scotland, was re-elected for Ayr and Rute.

Everywhere sympathy was expressed with former Premier Asquith because of his loss of his place in parliament. E. R. Mitchell, the laborite who put him out, remarked, in expressing the customary thanks to those who had gathered in a polling place, that he was sure his distinguished opponent recognized that the result brought him no personal satisfaction. Mr. Asquith showed his appreciation.

There seemed to be a tear or two forming in the eyes of the old liberal leader when Mrs. Asquith and he took the train for London this afternoon.

It would be an affection to pretend, he said, "that I am not profoundly disappointed with the result. Our hopes, indeed our confident expectations, have been defeated. We must accept the decision given whatever we may think of its merits, in a spirit of sportsmanship and as true Britons."

Major-General J. E. B. Seely, former liberal war minister, was defeated by the conservative candidate in the Isle of Wight.

Results Boom Market

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press.) The steady trend of election victory for the conservatives created excellent sentiment on the stock market this forenoon, where dealers immediately marked up quotations on gilt-edged securities from a quarter to half point and home rails and industrials by corresponding fractions in proportion to the election government as a result of the election would give impetus to investments. Speculative issues have not yet moved materially, but their tone is strong.

TRYON—The funeral of Mrs. Mary G. Tryon and her infant daughter took place from her home, 31 Olney street, yesterday. A funeral mass was celebrated at the Sacred Heart church by Rev. Charles P. Barry, O.M.I. The singing was by the sanctuary choir, with solos by James Hanley and Francis Barr as director and organist. The bearers were John Temple, Henry Burgess, John Moughan, William Gibbons, Raymond Fox and a sister. Burial was in the family lot in St. James' cemetery at Haverhill. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

Parking Automobiles

That the advance notices, giving the plan to do away with long parking periods in Merrimack street, have had an effect and there were more free spaces along the curbs this morning than usually is the case. Cars that stop in this area for a reasonable length of time will not be molested, but long-time parking will be eliminated, first by warning, to be followed by police action if the offense is continued.

In connection with the Merrimack street plan, which is similar to the one now in operation in Central street, Sergeant Connors points out the extensive parking accommodations offered in French street, which up to present time have not been made use of.

BIG IMPROVEMENT IN WHOLESALE DRUG TRADE

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 30.—The past year was one of distinct improvement in the whole sale drug trade, according to a bulletin issued today by the National Association of Druggists. This improvement was accomplished primarily through a reduction in the average ratio of total expense, the bulletin said.

The average firm, based on the statistics from 117 firms, considered, had net sales of $1,000,000, a gross margin of 17 per cent of this amount, total expense of 15.8 per cent, a net profit of 1.4 per cent and a stock turn 2.9 times during the year.

The study is one of nine being made annually by the bureau into the costs of doing business.

THOUGHT CREOLIN WAS MEDICINE

Nation-wide Peace to Be Formally Declared in Chinatown Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—An armistice has been declared in the Tong war and it is expected that a nation-wide peace will be formally declared in Chinatown this afternoon.

At a meeting here last night a treaty was drawn up and approved. It was learned for the first time last night that the latest outbreak of the Tong war, which spread across the country with murder in its wake, was the result of a business rivalry between the tongs of 25 years' standing.

PLAYS 5TH SYMPHONY

Boston Symphony Orchestra to Include Beethoven's Classic in Program Here

There was considerable curious anticipation of the performance of Beethoven's 5th Symphony by the Boston Symphony orchestra under the leadership of its new conductor, Serge Koussevitzky, at the second pair of Boston Symphony concerts in Boston October 17 and 18. The word had come from Europe that this conductor was capable of interpreting classical symphonies very much in his own way, causing angry protests from certain conservatives and tradition worshippers.

The actual performance of this piece by the orchestra in Boston brought nothing from audience and critics but enthusiasm for the conductor's eloquence in this immortal symphony.

DISCUSSED SCHOOL AND HOME PROBLEMS

Parents of pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Vernum school met with the teachers in the school hall last evening and held an informal discussion of school and home problems.

Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, principal, was in charge of the meeting and called upon the parents to assist the teachers in their work with the children.

An entertainment by school children followed the meeting; the program being as follows: Piano solos, Stella Duczynski; violin solos, Charles Tully; clarinet solos, Donat Martel; piano solo, Emma Hall; piano solo, Eileen Flynn; selections, the Barbara trio, composed of Sylvester Barbara, cornetist; Lionel Barbara, violinist and Marguerite Barbara, pianist.

FOLLETTE-WHEELER HAD THIN BLOOD

RALLY LAST NIGHT

At a La Follette-Wheeler rally in the Auditorium last night a long list of speakers gave reasons why the Independent-Progressive ticket should appeal to all Americans, despite previous party affiliations or residence.

The meeting was in charge of the Lowell Trades & Labor council, with Parker F. Murphy, secretary of the council, as presiding officer.

The first speaker was Cong. Edward E. Browne of Wisconsin, who told his audience that La Follette is a "McKinley, Lincoln, Roosevelt republican" and that a vote for the Independent-Progressive ticket is a vote for government by the whole people of the country.

Charles M. Crowell, Esq. of Lynn referred to La Follette as "a new Loch-Invar come out of the west" and that La Follette seeking office and La Follette filling office have always been the same person.

Other speakers who discussed the various referenda to appear on the ballot were David F. Shiley of the Constitutional Liberty League who spoke against the "liquor" referendum; Frank McCarthy, representing President Samuel Gompers of the A. F. of L., who spoke in favor of the proposed child labor amendment; Joseph H. Parkes of the Industrial Accident Board, who favored the continuance of daylight saving and Atty. William N. Osgood of this city, who urged support of the La Follette-Wheeler ticket.

At the end of the rally Parker F. Murphy outlined the attitude of the Trades & Labor council toward public men and questions and made it clear that the council has not taken any stand upon the proposed child labor amendment.

ARE YOU COMMITTING THIS CRIME AGAINST YOUR HEALTH?

An enormous number of people are weak, nervous and ailing, always complaining and doctoring, simply because they have committed the great American crime against their health—hothouse while labor life, overwork and improper diet have exhausted the iron from their blood, making it thin, pale and watery; they have made no effort to replace this iron which the blood must have to keep them well and strong.

You can easily determine whether you have been committing this health crime. You can get more iron by eating plenty of spinach, lentils and green vegetables. But doctors always advise people who are anemic, weak, nervous and run-down to take iron in concentrated form—organic iron. Nuxated Iron is organic iron like the iron in your own blood and like that in spinach and green vegetables. It is entirely different from the mineral iron used in the past, for it is readily assimilated and so acts much more quickly and surely. Besides, it doesn't injure the teeth or disturb the stomach. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be equal to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen baked apples. Millions of people have used it to quickly help make rich red blood, and give increased strength, energy and endurance. Make this convincing test: Get Nuxated Iron today and take it for only two weeks; you will notice a marvelous improvement in health and strength, or your money will be refunded. Sold under this absolute guarantee by all good druggists.—Adv.

ROOSEVELT IS LIKE ANDY GUMP

Gov. Smith Says His Opponent is Being All Things to All People.

Staten Island Stages Torchlight Parade in Honor of Governor

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—With a torchlight and red fire parade, including several bands, Staten Island tendered its first reception of the gubernatorial campaign to Governor Alfred Smith last night.

"It would serve no useful purpose to go over the numerous misstatements and inaccuracies in the so-called labor record of the republican party," the colonel mentions," Governor Smith declared. "Every time I check him up on one misstatement he makes another. He never seems to want to learn. He does not have to go back to 1887 to let the people know where he stands on these questions; they have his own record."

The governor said Colonel Roosevelt reminded him of Andy Gump in being all things to all people. "There is this difference, though," he said. "Andy Gump would never wear another man's collar."

Roosevelt on Jump.
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Returning from a tour of Westchester county, where he made speeches in five towns last night, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will continue his campaign for governor with 11 addresses in Harlem tonight.

Colonel Roosevelt concentrated his remarks yesterday on the state public school system. He accused the democrats of trying to get control of the system for political purposes through a bill introduced by Senator Walker taking the appointment of the head of the system from the board of regents and putting it in the hands of the governor.

Drift to Democrats.
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Governor Smith's plurality in New York city in the coming election will be greater than the 470,000 he obtained in 1922, it is predicted by George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall. His statement, the first in which he has talked figures, comes as an official Tammany prediction.

John W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate will be "well up with Governor Smith" in voting, the Tammany leader predicted.

"The drift from La Follette set in several days ago," said Mr. Olvany. "The drift is to the whole democratic ticket. We ought to carry every congressional district in New York county and we will gain several seats in the senate and assembly."

FIRE AT SIASCONSET

Picturesque Village Narrowly Escaped Destruction Early Today

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 30.—The picturesque village of Siasconset, where actors and artists have established a summer colony, escaped destruction in a fire early today. The flames, appeared in the Phillips building, and ran through it, spreading to the Morris building adjoining. Sparks rained the fire then to the Postoffice building, which is a volunteer fire department fought to stop it. Help went out from here, and after two hours the firemen had succeeded in preventing the flames from reaching the summer cottages and other buildings in the business center. The total loss was only about $12,000.

FRANCE'S RECOGNITION PLEASES RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press)—France's recognition of Soviet Russia is hailed with keen satisfaction through the country, the newspapers in lengthy front page articles pointing out the advantages which are expected to accrue to both countries. General satisfaction also is expressed that the alleged Zinovieff letter to the British communists, which created such a stir in England, had no effect upon the French.

Premier Rykov attributes France's action largely to Premier Herriot's personal visit to Russia in 1922 and to France's need of direct commercial relations with Russia. He remarks that all the great powers of Europe have recognized the Soviet regime and that there now remain only Japan and the United States.

He was taken to East Cambridge this afternoon.

BASEMENT

HUGHES SAYS DEMOCRAT PROGRAM "STERILE"

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes assailed the democratic foreign relations campaign policy and charged Senator La Follette's party with "running away" from its platform in a campaign address for the republican ticket here last night.

Mr. Hughes declared the democratic program to be "sterile." He again attacked the position taken by the democratic national convention on the League of Nations.

"If it were demanded that we should join the League of Nations," he said, "and thus participate as a member in the work of the organization, that would be an understandable demand, but it is precisely the position the democratic party has refused to take. It has declined for reasons of its own, to make the question of joining the league an issue in this campaign."

The third party, said Secretary Hughes, "is not sterile. The third party has a definite program. But the more it is discussed, the worse for the third party they realize it, themselves and are running away from the platform which they had so deliberately prepared. But the platform is there and they cannot escape it. It is the reason for their existence."

The proposal of the La Follette party that "congress may be re-constituted" to make it effective over a judicial veto, declared Mr. Hughes, "involves the destruction of the constitutional guarantees of individual liberty."

Mr. Hughes prefaced his discussion of the national campaign by a plea for support of the gubernatorial candidacy of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in New York state.

LA FOLLETTE IN BOSTON TONIGHT

Independent Candidate on 34-Hour Invasion of Coolidge's Home State

Advocates Government Ownership of Water Power in Address at Schenectady

LA FOLLETTE SPECIAL TO BOSTON, ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Primed for a 34 hour invasion of Massachusetts, President Coolidge's home state, Senator Robert M. La Follette left here today for Boston where he speaks tonight.

The independent presidential candidate stopped here overnight on his way from Schenectady where in an address last night he advocated government ownership of water power and declared that "when we purge our life of monopoly through public ownership, we purge our government of corruption as well."

Senator La Follette announced that in Boston tonight he would discuss imperialism and the on-sweeping drive of American gold and American oil in the hands of the house of Morgan and the house of Rockefeller in compact with imperialism's great Britain to make an American-Anglo conquest of the world.

After his dash into New England, Mr. La Follette will turn westward to carry his fight for the presidency again into Pennsylvania. On Friday night he will deliver a speech in Pittsburgh, home of Secretary Mellon, and then will go to Cleveland to wind up campaigning Saturday night.

Commenting further on publication of income tax returns, before leaving here for Boston, the Wisconsin senator declared in a statement that "the attempt of the republican administration to intimidate the newspapers of the country and to invade constitutional right of freedom for the press through threats put out by the republican attorney-general is only another instance of the lengths to what the republicans will go in their service of private monopoly system."

SEVERAL VESSELS IN BOSTON MAN SELECTED DIFFICULTIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Largely as a result of storms sweeping inland from the north Pacific ocean, the last three days, several coastwise vessels were in difficulties today.

The motorship Shark, a 44 ton craft, was tossed on the rocks on the northern California coast, near the Oregon border. The crew was unhurt. Helped to be in immediate danger.

From Point Lohos came the report that the French schooner Roy Somers had suffered damage to steering gear and other equipment and was being towed to port by a tug.

The tanker Alden Anderson, of the Associated Oil company was burned at Avon, about 15 miles northeast of Oakland. Reports said several members of the crew jumped overboard and six had not been accounted for.

Damage to the ship and surrounding property was placed at $1,000,000. The blaze started when a section of the pier caved in as the Anderson, a steel tanker of 6367 tons, was unloading crude oil.

SUBMARINE ASHORE, CREW RESCUED

HONOLULU, Oct. 30.—(By the Associated Press)—Navy officials announced that the submarine R-1 had been ashore on a reef at the entrance to Honolulu harbor since midnight Tuesday. The officers and crew, numbering 25, were rescued at dawn yesterday.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

The home of Miss Evangeline Horan in Highland Avenue was the scene last evening of a pretty social gathering in honor of Miss Emma O'Connor on the occasion of her 20th birthday anniversary. Miss Eva Horan in behalf of the large gathering attending, presented Miss O'Connor a beautiful silk umbrella. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with the season's colors and Halloween novelties. An enjoyable program, including piano selections by Mrs. Bertha Sullivan and Soanetta Lavery; vocal selections by Mrs. Annie Houston, Anna Keefe, Anna Farrell, Patrick Cushing, Charles McCuskey, Fred Greaves, and Joseph Buckley; and recitations by Miss Isabelle Walker and Julia Riley were enjoyed. Martin O'Connor and George Hyne entertained with novelty dances and were accompanied by Henry McCabe on the piano. Harmonica duets by Alfred Leavitt and John Gomes were the feature of the evening. Mrs. Horan, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. East were the hostesses of the evening, while Miss Eva Horan and Miss Madeline Connolly were in charge of the affair.

SENATOR WALSH AND THE TARIFF

The Boston Herald charges Senator Walsh with inconsistency when he says that he is not a free trader but a protectionist. The senator never favored free trade, but always a tariff for revenue and for the reasonable protection of American industries against the dumping of the foreign products of cheap labor upon our shores.

That, however, does not, as the Herald infers, prove that he favors "protection gone mad" as illustrated in certain features of the Fordney-McCumber law. The tariff protection that enables Secretary Mellon's Aluminum Trust to maintain a monopoly and defy competition, is a case in point. There are many other instances in which the present tariff is prohibitive, and it is this particular form of protection that Senator Walsh condemns under the head of "special privilege" and as a sop to the predatory interests in payment for large contributions to republican campaign funds.

In reply to a question by Senator Walsh as to whether he approved of the Fordney-McCumber law, Speaker Gillett at the Auditorium the other evening said he certainly favored the present tariff law, although he admitted it is not perfect by any means. The attitude of Senator Walsh in regard to the tariff was indicated in congress when he moved for an investigation of the operation of the tariff law as affecting the textile industries of New England. The senator found that there was a loophole in the present law that operated against the textile industries of New England by permitting the importation of large quantities of unfinished cotton fabrics. These importations caused many of the New England mills either to curtail or shut down. The investigation was blocked and defeated by republican opposition in congress, undoubtedly for the reason that it might show up the defects of the present tariff law and bring a degree of credit to the Massachusetts senator for the exposure and his effort to remedy an economic evil.

The Herald talks of the Underwood tariff and voices the sentiments of republican extremists on protection to the effect that "it did not protect." That statement is untrue, and there is abundant evidence to prove that the Underwood tariff law was one of the best ever put on the statute books. The duties did not average as high as those of the Fordney-McCumber bill, but they were more justly applied and there was no instance of anything in the line of an excessive duty that would shelter monopolies with power to plunder the public, even on some of the necessities of life.

SEC. WILBUR'S MISSION

Secretary Wilbur of the navy is coming out to answer criticism of the naval policies of the administration and to tell what he is to ask congress to do next year.

Will he tell the anxious public why he was ordered by the president to stop the work of raising the emplacements of guns on about twenty warships in order to put their gun range on a parity with that of British ships? Was it not because of a protest that came from England on the ground that such action was a violation of the agreement embodied in the arms reduction treaty of which we hear so much?

If that treaty stands in the way, congress cannot break it. Yet Secretary Wilbur says congress will be asked for authority to make this change. The gun range of some twenty of our war vessels included in our 6.5 ratio is two miles less than that of the British ships and yet when England objects we are obliged to stop the work.

The fact is that while England has built beyond the treaty limit in some directions, the republican administration has not kept our navy up to that ratio. England had more scout cruisers than we had when the treaty was adopted and she has built more since. Although the treaty presumes a steady equality, we have fallen behind, and many of our ships are older and less efficient than British vessels are old and behind the times, yet when England protested against increasing their gun range, we simply bowed assent and quit.

Now Wilbur tries to shift the responsibility by saying that he will ask congress for authority. That looks like a mere subterfuge. The conference of which the republicans boast, barred our freedom to keep our navy in fit condition for any emergency in national defense.

DOWN BOTH THE COOKS

The voters of Massachusetts are requested to pay particular attention to the candidates for state auditor so that Strabo V. Claggett, democrat, may be chosen over Alonzo B. Cook, republican. It has been announced from many platforms throughout the state that Mr. Cook should be defeated in the interest of good government, fair play and public decency. Mr. Claggett at a recent rally in this city, told why the voters of all parties should oppose Mr. Cook's election. The reasons given were untranslatable. They were very numerous and among the least important were inefficiency and neglect of duty.

Mr. Claggett is a highly capable man, well qualified in every way to discharge the duties of the office with credit to himself, his party and the people at large. It would seem that there should be no possibility of Cook's election except that his name be mistaken for that of Frederick W. Cook, who is the republican candidate for secretary of state. The latter's opponent on the democratic ticket is John J. Cummings of Boston. The only safe course, therefore, is to vote against both the Cooks and then there will be no danger of spoiling the political broth.

THE SILLY STUFF

The fact that President Coolidge, as republicans claim, wears a night shirt, is put forward as another reason why he should be elected. The implication is that John W. Davis wears pajamas and that, per contra, is put forward as a reason why he should be defeated. Did anybody ever hear of such silly doings in a very important political contest? Such matters are only brought forward to divert public attention from the main issues of the campaign. It is for the same reason that President Coolidge is exploited not only as the party candidate, but also the party platform. The platform adopted at the Cleveland convention is lost sight of and the doing of certain high officials in opposition to the principles and policies of the party are now forgotten or kept in the background. As a foil to the charges of corruption, it is being shouted from the rooftops that President Coolidge is honest. Of course he is.

SEEN AND HEARD

Perhaps that's why the Scotch wear no trousers. All of their trousers worn out years ago.

A Thought

A fool cannot look nor stand, nor walk like a man of sense.—La Bruyere.

Memorable Fact

While digging in his cellar, a Lancaster, N. H., man found an apple tree root which was 14 feet long. The tree from which the root comes stands 60 feet from the house.

He Gave It Up

A visitor to a school, after questioning a little boy about various matters asked him if he knew the Ten Commandments. The boy said he did not. "You don't know the Ten Commandments?" "No, sir," the boy insisted. "What is your name, lad?" "Moses, sir." The visitor gave it up.

Some Conclusions

Two former cronies met on Broadway after a separation of many years. "What's this I hear, Jehro?" asked one. "You say you're a congressman now." "Yes, two terms." "Well, how is it, being a member of congress?" "Just like being married," he replied. "Constant joy?" "Now, a lot of explaining when you get home."

Undoing the Sentence

A judge, who had been serving in a criminal court, effected a transfer to a divorce court. Some lawyers were wondering why he made the change. "Well, he said," he explained, "I was a judge, but I'm a very humane man." "What has that to do with it?" "Well, in a criminal court, he had to send people to jail, but in a divorce court he gives them their liberty."

Ownership at Stake

A couple of big business men in Washington were talking one evening about government taxation. "There is no telling where we will land by the time the bill is passed," said one. "Our status is as uncertain as that of an old negro slave I once heard of. Somebody asked him who he belonged to, and he replied, 'I belong to the white man's upstairs playin' pokah.'"

The Law Defeated

It's illegal in Wisconsin to take ducks from an open boat in open water. It is also illegal to take them after sundown. But Arthur Tullrich of Victoria did both and enjoyed duck dinner without hindrance from the game warden. He was standing in the bow of a launch with a lantern in hand while crossing the Mississippi after dark when without warning, a hefty mallard sailed into him at top speed. The duck was killed.

Girl of His Dreams

One night Robert Wilson, Los Angeles, went to the theatre, and there on the other side of the footlights was the girl of his dreams. He was there again the next night, and at the next, until the show left for San Francisco, but not until Robert had tossed the girl a note and received a smile in return. Robert followed her to San Francisco, although it took all his savings to buy a one-way ticket. The show didn't re-open at once and he could not find the girl. He was very tired and hungry and broke. Waiters workers found him and wrote his parents for funds, for Robert is only 12 and the girl of his dreams, eight.

Sail On, Sail On!

Sail on, sail on, thou fearless bark—
Wherever blows the welcome wind,
It cannot lead to scenes more dark,
More and than those we leave behind.
Each wave that passes seems to say,
"The death beneath our smile may be."
Less cold we are, less false than they,
Who's wrecked thy hopes and thee?
Sail on, sail on—thou endless space—
Thro' calm—thro' tempest—stop no more!
The stormiest sea's a resting place
To him who leaves such hearts on shore.
Or—if some desert land we meet,
Where never yet false-hearted men,
Protruded a world, that else were sweet,
Then rest thee, bark, but not till then!"

—THOMAS MOORE.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Congressman Rogers worked a hearty laugh out of his audience at the republican rally at the Auditorium Tuesday night when he expressed fear that another member of his family—his wife—will receive more votes than he on election day. Mrs. Rogers is a Coolidge elect and her congressman husband admits he will be obliged to tend strictly to his knitting if the male in the family is to continue to uphold his prestige.

Speaking of the republican rally, the voice of Mrs. Anna Tillinghast carried easily into all corners of the Auditorium, while the voices of the men, speakers were not so easily heard. In addition, Mrs. Tillinghast is a master of misdirection and throws out her words so forcefully as to insure their being heard and understood even in the last row of the balcony. Say this of Mrs. Tillinghast, too, she speaks the dictates of a brilliant mind. It is further remarkable also that at the democratic rally recently held in the same hall, it was a woman who carried off the oratorical honors for wit, humor and effective points. It seems that women are likely to excel in oratory, which so far as men are concerned, is rapidly becoming a lost art.

A mile in 22 seconds—Malcolm Campbell makes it in England with his auto, a 12-cylinder Sunbeam. Ten years ago such speed would have astounded the world. No one pays much attention to it now, for airplanes are far faster. The importance of any thing is entirely by contrast, or relatively. The goal of brain training should be to develop a sense of values for determining the importance of things and situations in relation to others. Values are relative.

Brush fires are threatened in various districts in which the leaves and withered grass need only the match to start a fire that will do immense harm. Burning up leaves is dangerous business these days.

When they're shoutin' "button, button, who has got the bloomin' button," it would seem that mom's the person who is gayed. For it's true, though maybe funny, that it's always little sonny who is stuttin' with his shirtwaist open wide.

Into work she's ever pitchin' with her sewin' and her stitchin' just to keep the needed buttons on his clothes. But no matter how she's trustin', there's an ever constant bustin' and the buttons fly haphazard, goodness knows.

HALLOWEEN

Sister Mary Plays Hostess at Your Halloween Party

A ROOM DECORATED FOR A HALLOWEEN PARTY

By SISTER MARY
The girl who is planning a Halloween party will find half the success of her party due to careful lighting arrangements.

The lights—unless a bright one is necessary for some particular game—should be dim and flickering. Candles best achieve this effect. Faint wavering light will immediately suggest the occult and unusual to Halloween guests and will create a "spooky" atmosphere. If electric lights are used, the shades should be lined with green tissue paper.

Try greens, grays, and an occasional gleam of orange for a color scheme. The grays will lead a vagueness and mystery that is most intriguing. A gray hat made of wire and cheesecloth suspended in such a way that he gently sways at every opened door will be more effective than a black one. And gray witches sailing on their broomsticks to wipe the cobwebs out of the sky are more mysterious than dead black witches.

To make "cobwebs," paste long ravellings of fine silk on a piece of cardboard and hang it in some doorway through which each guest must pass. The cardboard and threads must be inconspicuous and the threads, of course, of different lengths that will suit the heights of the guests.

Green frogs and lizards and snakes, all creatures chummy with witches and sorceresses, might replace the usual bric-a-brac and drape themselves over backs or chairs or peep from dull sprays of leaves. The frogs and snakes may be of cheesecloth or cambric and covered with ragged straw or seaweed, dependent on where the reptile is to deposit himself. For instance, a snake twisted gracefully around the arm of a chair should be stuffed with rags, while a lizard investigating the edge of a table should gain his backbone from seaweed.

Place a shock of corn—or at least some stalks of corn—in one corner of the living room or hall. With the corn for her abode, a gypsy holds forth an fortune-teller. She may be either a "palminist" or a "medium," gazing her needles from palms or communication with the spirit world. The decision rests with the hostess.

If apples are served during the evening, let it be understood that each apple is "snapped" and named—the girls named for a man of her acquaintance and the man's for a girl. Then the seeds must be counted to the accompaniment of this verse:

"One I love, 'two' I love, 'three,' I love I say,
"Four I love with all my heart, 'five' I cast away,
"Six I love, 'seven' she loves,
"Eight they both love,
"Nine he comes, 'ten' he tarries,
"Eleven he courts and 'twelve' he marries.
And of course the name of the apple is the 'he' or 'she' of the verse.

As for a Halloween supper, why not serve stuffed apple salad, rye bread sandwiches, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coffee? During the evening sweet cider might be served from a punch bowl.

Use a large cabbage to hold fruit as a centerpiece on the dining table. Cut the heart from the cabbage, leaving a strong shell. Fill it with grapes and apples and nuts. The effect is pleasing.

Stuffed Apple Salad

Twelve apples, ½ cup chopped raisins, 1 cup chopped nuts, 4 tablespoons orange marmalade, 2 Neufchatel cheeses, salad dressing.

Scrub out centers of apples, remove cores and chop apple. Combine raisins, nuts, marmalade, cheese and apple with salad dressing to make moist. Fill apples with mixture and serve on the leafy, wild clematis if possible. If you can't get the clematis, any leaves or grasses will do.

Rye Bread Sandwiches

Combine ripe olives and sweet red peppers, using half as much pepper as olive. Season with salt and put between slices of buttered rye bread.

Pumpkin Pie

One cup stewed and sifted pumpkin, 2½ cups brown sugar, 2 cups milk, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon (optional). Beat egg with sugar, salt and ginger. Add milk and pumpkin and mix well. Pour into pie dish lined with plain pastry and bake in a moderate oven until firm to the touch. This amount of custard will fill a medium-sized pie.

The secret of a good pumpkin pie lies in the stewing of the pumpkin. Long slow cooking is imperative. Gravid and slightly sweetened whipped cream.

HALLOWEEN PARTY BY GORHAM CLUB

The Gorham Social and Athletic club, composed of prominent men of the upper Gorham street district, will hold a Halloween dancing party in the Commodore on Friday evening. Active committees have been working on plans for the affair for several weeks and indications point to the event being one of the most successful of the season. The Gorham club has conducted a series of ladies' nights at their well appointed rooms at the corner of Gorham and Olive streets during the past few months, all of which have been attended by many enjoyable features. But the party on Friday night is expected to eclipse all previous endeavors. Miner and Doyle's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

PARTY IN LIBERTY HALL THIS EVENING

Liberty hall will this evening be the scene of a merry gathering when a Halloween party will be given by the League of Catholic Women. The hospitality of the league is always most cordial and this evening promises to be one of the feature events of the early social season. Favors galore will add much to the general enjoyment of the affair while a popular local orchestra will provide music for the dancing. The decoration committee has a pretty color scheme to be carried out in the arrangement of the hall and indications point to a successful and enjoyable event.

HALLOWEEN PARTY IN PARISH HOUSE

An enjoyable Halloween party was held in the parish house of All Souls church last night with about 175 members of the congregation present. Mrs. A. P. French was chairman of the committee in charge. Entertainment was given under the direction of Miss Edith Franklin, Allan Dumas and Katherine Baker. The hall was prettily decorated in Halloween style.

THE WITCH OF 1924

Halloween Tricks and Games

THE GHOST FIRE

A big dishpan is placed in the center of the floor of a dark room. The pan contains some four or five pounds of salt which has been fairly well saturated with wood alcohol. The party gathers around the pan, chanting any sort of meaningless but impressive nonsense.

Each has been given a chestnut marked in some distinguishing way. A lighted match is thrown on the salt, which breaks into an uncanny green blaze. The chestnuts then are thrown in, and the boy or girl whose chestnut cracks first will be the first bride or bridegroom. Of course, the chestnuts must be eaten immediately after popping.

BOB FOR APPLES

The hands of the contestants must be tied behind them in bobbing for apples. In the heart of each apple a name may be placed, or an initial letter cut in the skin. Each player will draw one apple with his teeth from the tub of water in which they are floating. The person whose name or initials are on the apple drawn out of the water will be the partner of the one who bobbed for it.

The apples should be stemless. In some localities the winner of the greatest number of apples is awarded a prize.

FORTUNE TELLING

Supply each guest at your party with a piece of bright red sealing wax, and a cup or shallow bowl of ice water. The wax is melted and dropped through a ring or key (a wedding ring, if possible) into the water. It will instantly harden in branch-like formations, supposed to be "prophecies."

Any ingenious person can interpret the shapes and furnish much amusement for his listeners. Thus, a bell-shaped drop indicates "a wedding within a year"; anything resembling a torch or lamp may be a forecast of "fame," etc., etc.

LOVE PROPHECIES

Any girl can find out at least the first letter of her future husband's name by peeling an apple carefully so as to keep the paring in one unbroken ribbon, then taking the paring by one end, swinging it three times around the head and letting it drop. The paring surely will fall into the shape of the desired first initial.

Two apples stuck on the eyelids help one to see which of two lovers is the more desirable. The seeds are named after the lovers, and that which drops from the lid first indicates the sweetheart whose love is not enduring.

(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

GHOSTLY HAND

Stuff an old kid glove with rags or paper. Then wet the outside of the glove with ice water. Invite your guests, one by one, into a darkened room to meet the "presiding spirit" of the evening. The person holding the glove contrives to have the guest take it in his or her hand.

It is even better for the host to put a wet glove on his own hand and grasp the hand of each person with it. The clammy, "creepy" feeling of being touched with a cold, wet glove will get a rise out of "most anybody!" It is one of the best of the Halloween "spirit" tricks.

ORACLES

The "Delphic Oracle" will provide much amusement for a Halloween party. Some member of the party should be stationed in a dark corner. Let him stand on a box to increase his height, shroud him in a sheet, and let him hold a jack of spades on his head. The oracle can answer only "yes" or "no" to questions asked her, but the vehemence with which she nods or shakes her head can be very expressive. The oracle should be surrounded by cornstalks and autumn leaves and vines simply arranged. Pumpkins and vegetables of all sorts can be used to hold candles.

NURSES GRADUATED AT ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL

Three members of the class of 1924 of St. John's hospital training school were graduated last evening in the midst of Halloween festivities attended by 52 undergraduates, instructors and members of the hospital staff. The graduates are the Misses Florence Donoghue of this city, Edith name of Lynn and Margaret Murphy of St. John, N. H.

If being the Halloween season, it was believed an appropriate time to entertain the graduates and the undergraduates succeeded very well in their program. In keeping with the season, costumes of every kind were worn by those attending. Maggie and Jiggs, being the features of the evening. Every nation of the earth was interpreted at the affair while Wears Wilkes and witches, as well as ghosts and bogies cast their spell on the gathering. The dining hall, where the affair

A dancing party will be conducted by the Trenoweth Girls at the Green Lantern, formerly the Pawtucket boat house, tonight. It will take the form of a Halloween party, and a number of features peculiar to the season will be on the program. The committee in charge of the affair has been at work on plans for several weeks, and an enjoyable evening is assured all who attend. Ted Marshall's orchestra will furnish music.

Outdoor department: Miss Margaret E. Tully, supervisor of the operating room and Miss Mary B. Woodhead, anaesthetist, each of whom addressed the graduates and wished them success in all future undertakings.

HALLOWEEN

They tell me Halloween's the time
When love is in the making;
When witches wave their wands sublime
And set fair hearts at aching.
The goblins gather round about
And games that come to pass
Will show your lover, if you'll look
Within a looking glass.

I've tried these magic, mystic ways
Of finding love that's true
But fate, it seems, just taunts and plays;
There's just one thing to do.
I've carved myself a pumpkin, just
As scary as can be.
I'm hoping it will scare her into
Really loving me!

The Night of Witches

Nearly 2000 years ago, youth was joyously and impishly celebrating Halloween. It is one of our oldest institutions, a link connecting us with the weird superstitions of long ago.

No longer do we actually believe in witches and marauding demons—but once a year we are pleased to imagine we do.

To our ancient ancestors, the witches and demons and marauding ogres were very real. The shadow of those barbaric days falls over us on Halloween. Study the customs of this "night of mischief" and you are transported back to the time which, while barbaric, was romantic and adventurous in the extreme. We have lost a lot of the joys of life by being disillusioned as to the reality of such mystic characters as witches. Progress is many things, including dull.

How Halloween Originated

Memories of our ancestors who believed in goblins, banshees, ghouls and other evil spirits are called up by the modern celebration of Halloween.

In the early days of the Christian church, the first of November was set aside as All Saints' day, because it was impossible to observe a separate day for each saint.

The night before All Saints' day was known as "Hallow evening"—then as Halloween. It was a fearful night, during which the evil spirits were believed to burst from their bonds and haunt the world, having a last fling prior to the sacred day.

There was, however, a brighter side to Halloween. It marked the end of harvest and the beginning of new terms of farm tenancy and landlordship.

Renewing his contracts with his tenants or making arrangements with new ones, it was the Halloween custom of landlords to bring forth the glowing bowl, baskets of red apples and sacks of oats for a great celebration.

HALLOWEEN PARTY AND MASQUERADE BALL

The spirits of the past and present abounded in all their glory last evening when St. Peter's girls club made merry at its annual Halloween party and Masquerade ball held in St. Peter's school hall. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion in Halloween colors. The main feature of the evening was the grand march in which all members, in costume, participated. Miss Ethel Lundy was awarded first prize for the most original costume while the second prize was awarded Miss Helen Ripelle. Miss Grace Madden and Miss Estelle Mulligan were given third and fourth prizes respectively. A vaudeville sketch in eight short acts was presented following which a beautiful Halloween repast was served and dancing ensued to musical strains from station S.P.G.C. The program in full follows:

The affair was in charge of the following committee: John Conlon, chairman; Thomas J. Tighe, George Pollard, William Busby, Andrew Finnegan, Frank Riley, James O'Brien, Frank Carroll, John Tighe, John Bowers, Edward Sullivan and Edward Gordon.

COMMODORE BALLROOM

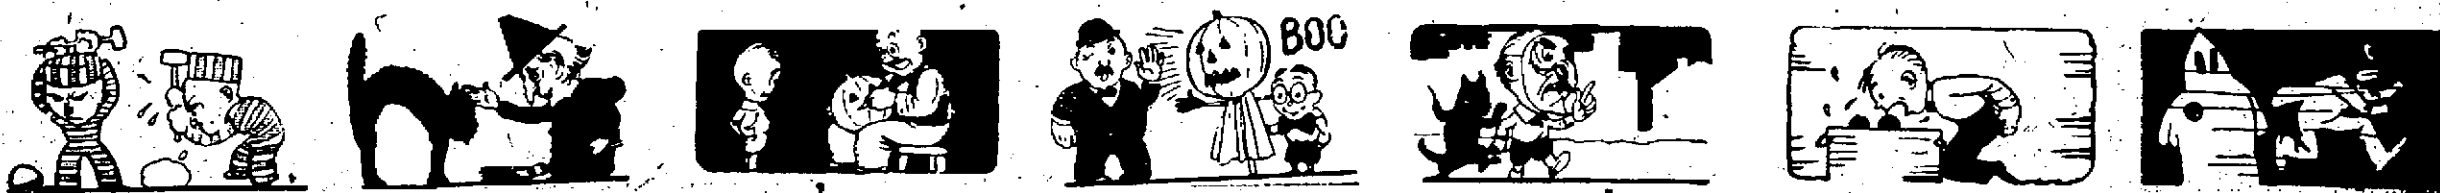

There will be dancing tonight and Saturday night at the Commodore ballroom on Thorndike street. "Maid Hallett and his band of jazz artists will furnish the music on both occasions, the usual snappy program of latest dance hits will be offered.

The hall is comfortable and large crowds have found this resort an ideal place to spend an enjoyable evening. Plenty of fun and a general good time is always had by those attending these sessions.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. Harry Parsons of Lano street was tendered a surprise party Tuesday evening on the occasion of his 41st anniversary and was presented many gifts among them being a beautiful smoking set and a birthday cake, the presentations being made by Alfred Lightbody. Mrs. Anna C. Holland, a guest, was presented a bouquet of carnations. An enjoyable program of games and musical numbers was given during the evening with guests from Concord, N. H., Lawrence, Fitchburg and Westford participating. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ida Parsons; assisted by Mrs. Bernice Parsons.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The Kellums have solved the weather problem. No overcoats for them this winter, nor Palm Beach suits next summer.

They have out-fitted a four-masted schooner and set sail in quest of warm winters and cool summers. They headed out through the Golden Gate for the South Seas, there to joll through the winter under a kindly sun.

Next spring, they will return to San Francisco to take aboard a new supply of provisions and then they will sail for a summer in Alaskan waters. They have mapped cruises in friendly waters for the next two years.

M. R. Kellum is a retired capitalist of Fort Myers, Fla. He bought the lumber schooner Kaimiloa and made her into a floating palace.

The ship is lighted by electricity. Aboard are an ice manufacturing plant, powerful radio station, library, baths in every cabin.

Two 125-horsepower Diesel engines which will propel the boat when adverse winds blow.

Between decks is a well-equipped laboratory for six scientists from the Bishop Museum who will join the party at Honolulu.

With Kellum are his wife and four children, his friend, R. Dale Miller of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Miller; tutors for the children, a ship's doctor, a nurse, maid and crew.

While the scientists explore in their fields, the Kellums and the Millers will hunt and fish. When the scientists are at work in their "lab," the Kellums and Millers will be amusing themselves to their hearts' content.

LITTLE JOE

SPARE THE ROD AND THE FURNACE GETS FULL OF CLINKERS!

AT AD CLUB DINNER

Declaring that a multitude of American citizens of both sexes today are revolting against noble traditions and organized authority, morally, socially and economically, and that the gay poetic phrase, "On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined!" accurately describes an alarming phase of aimless, careless American life glaringly flaunted in many sections of the country, William F. Thornton, Lowell public school chief attendant officer, held the attention of a good-sized audience gathered yesterday afternoon at the weekly dinner of Lowell Advertising club in Y.M.C.A. building. Mr. Thornton's topic was: "The Revolt Against Authority."

President Thomas Atkinson of the club presided at the business meeting and Councilor John W. Daly introduced Mr. Thornton. Previous to the speaking program, members discussed plans for attending the next convention of the New England district of Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, to be held in Hartford, Conn., Nov. 15, 17, 18 and 19.

Past President Edward Cooney urged the members to take active interest in the convention and attend in goodly numbers. Many promised to do so. It is planned to journey from Lowell to the convention by automobile bus conveyances, the cost being about $8 per passenger, and allowing delegates and guests to remain in Hartford throughout the convention and return home without extra charges for transportation between the two cities.

The program for the Hartford rally of the "Ad clubs" of New England, is an attractive one. One of the features will be an address by Col. Charles Chesley of South Manchester, Conn., silk magnate, on the subject "Advertising New England." Hartford Advertising club members are to entertain guests at evening banquets in Hotel Bond. Edward A. Filena of Boston, merchant and student of international affairs, will give the principal address on Nov. 17. Mr. Thornton's address was devoted to presenting cold facts relating to present-day living and working conditions, dwelling at length upon his allegation that there is a general revolt everywhere in the country against "old social laws," family living methods and even the churches in many cities and towns of previous steady-going community life and pursuits.

He referred to the sound warning issued not long ago by a great pontiff in Rome speaking at a meeting of the college of cardinals, when the beloved leader of the Boston diocese, William Cardinal O'Connell, was present. The pope solemnly declared that Americans today in numberless thousands are guilty of five great offenses and pursuits, as follows:

"Challenging the authority of the laws; nourishing hatred between men; cultivating an aversion to work; thirsting for pleasures; exhibiting gross materialism which denies the spiritual in men."

Mr. Thornton believes that the World war cannot be wholly blamed for conditions complained of today. The symptoms of unrest, indifference and resistance to lawful authority and restraint were noted long before the last war, he continued.

"Modern civilization today can be called 'Vanity Fair,'" he said. "We are enjoying the pleasures of the earth today faster than we can produce them. Gross materialism is replacing past high resolves. Fifteen years ago, 15 per cent. of the population of the United States lived in the cities and 85 per cent. in the rural districts of the land. Today 52 per cent. of the country's population exists in the cities."

Mr. Thornton stated that there has been a 400 per cent. growth in crime, according to federal statistical records up to the year 1922, and we have a large number of criminals in the country today. He added, "The speaker believed that in the main the revolt was one against organized authority, but not against the political state." He declared that in his belief, the seriousness of the situation today cannot be exaggerated.

SHOE SHOP CLOSED SINCE JUNE 1 TO REOPEN

ROCKLAND, Mass., Oct. 29.—A resumption of activities at the Emerson Shoe company factory on Plain street, seems bright. The plant employing 1000 hands has been idle since June 1. This action is expected to be ratified at a meeting of the Emerson stockholders Nov. 5. Such is believed to be the terms by which the sale is to be made.

A deal with the Isaac Prouty Shoe company of Spencer which was nearly completed fell through, the move being blocked by committee members when it was found that it was intended to move the business from the Old Colony district.

ALLEGED CONFESSION OF M'DONALD ADMITTED

HILLSBORO, Mo., Oct. 29.—A surprise was sprung in the supreme court here today when Edward P. Murray, attorney for Roland McDonald, who is on trial for the murder of Miss Louise Gerrish, Amherst school teacher, announced at the conclusion of the case of the prosecution, that he would call but two witnesses, the Allenists who had previously declared the boy sane.

"The defense does not claim that this boy is insane," asserted Mr. Murray. "We contend that his mind while not diseased is weak. His mind is incapable of conceiving malice and committing crime."

The state scored its most important victory this morning when Justice Dunn admitted the alleged confession of McDonald made to the authorities shortly after the crime was committed.

GOV. SMITH REPLIES TO COL. ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Commenting on the speech of labor legislation delivered last night in Brooklyn by Theodore Roosevelt, republican nominee for governor, Governor Smith today said:

"Every time I ask him questions he goes back to 1850 or to 1776 and 1492. He spoke about his first hand knowledge of what it means to work oppressive hours and for $7 a week in a carpet factory, but I am informed that while he received $7 a week when he started to work in the carpet factory, he lived in luxury and comfort at the home of the president of the corporation. Perhaps that is the reason that the oppressive hours and the low wage made such little impression on him that, when he had an opportunity to do something for working women and children in this state, he passed it by."

DAVIS SHARPLY RAPS COOLIDGE SPEECH ON FOREIGN POLICY

Challenges President's View on Powers of Congress—
Calls Navy Treaty, as it Stands, Very Unfortunate—Takes Fling at Hughes

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes were singled out last night for a direct attack by John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, when he answered speeches delivered by them last Thursday and pointedly replied to definitions they gave of the administration's foreign policy.

Speaking at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, Mr. Davis declared he would replace "exceptional and exceptional" international conferences with a "system of organic, regular and periodic conferences, whose coming together will not depend upon the passing whim of any nation but which will be a part of the ordered life of the world."

"This is a vast question," Mr. Davis said, "of far greater consequence than any matter of machinery or the language of any particular covenant. It marks the whole difference between the old world, with its dreary record of appalling disaster and the new world, with its promise of a better day."

"And to this coming change which will separate the future from the past," Mr. Davis added, "the president is obviously blind or deliberately hostile."

"Mockery of Language"

The candidate read numerous excerpts from the addresses of President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes. The president's statement that "we propose to continue our efforts to promote international justice under international law, through international conferences, advancing always towards the goal of outlawing aggressive war" was analyzed in this way:

"To call such a statement 'well defined' is to make mockery of the English language. Just such a statement might have been made by any nation in all the globe at any time within the last thousand years. As a lamp for the 20th century it throws little light upon the highway."

Secretary Hughes' "defense" of the Washington armament conference was repudiated by Mr. Davis explaining that it had never been his intention to "color the public mind of the gross exaggerations with which political artifice has intentionally surrounded its results."

"Surely Mr. Hughes must know," the candidate added at this point, "that of the four major treaties which he gave birth to those which deal with the use of submarine and noxious gases in warfare and with territorial integrity in China and the open door, are not yet in effect because of the failure of this date of France to ratify the same."

Effect of Arms Conference

Mr. Davis called attention to the naval treaty, pointing out in that connection that "our present naval ratio with reference to Great Britain has been made by the treaty of the navy himself to be no better than that of four to five, while other naval experts insist that it is no better than two or two and one-half to five."

"Whatever may rightfully be said in praise of the conference must commence at a beginning," Mr. Davis said, "it is impossible to escape the conclusion that if we are to go no further it will constitute a most unfortunate ending."

"If the peace of the world is to rest in the future as it has done in the past upon force, if each nation is to rely for protection upon its weight of armament, then as a result of this Washington conference there will be a political campaign, not only less secure, unless we are willing to press on and lend our aid to the cause of general disarmament, and the upbuilding of world opinion and international arbitration as a substitute for force. It may have been better for us had we never made this initial advance."

Reference to League

"Hardly less happy is the secretary when he comes to interpret the meaning of the democratic platform on the subject of international relations and the league. Having in mind previous efforts on his part in the interpretation of party platform, one might be pardoned a certain skepticism as to his skill as an interpreter."

"If he will spend the necessary time to read the democratic platform 'he will find there a declared purpose to bring the present administration to the American relation to the League of Nations out of the quagmire of party politics and to give the American people a chance for its consideration free from the unrelated contentions of a political campaign."

"There may be those who for fancied political advantage would oppose this purpose, but most Americans, I believe, whether friends or foes of the league itself, regret that it became the sport of partisanship, and are eager to raise the question from the political arena to the arena of the people's choice."

"The League of Nations is a thing of the future, and it is a thing of the future that we will officially participate in any conference called to deal with world affairs."

Takes Up Coolidge Speech

Referring to another statement contained in the president's address—explaining that the administration has abstained from joining the League of Nations "mainly for the purpose of avoiding political entanglements and committing ourselves to the assumption of the obligation of others"—Mr. Davis said:

"Presumably, the president meant to intimate that we not only have abstained but will continue to abstain from the League of Nations, and having closed the incident, he has closed his mind and his memory as well, since otherwise he would recall that even were the United States a member, it could be committed to no entanglement or assumption of the obligations of others without its affirmative vote and consent. If we abstain 'mainly' for the reasons assigned by the president, it would be interesting to know what other reasons are in his mind which support these main considerations."

"It cannot be his belief in the fiction that the election of 1920 was decisive of the question, for this he himself was prompt to disavow before that year had closed. Perhaps they are of the same indefinable character as those that have influenced his secretary of state to abandon his position so boldly assumed in the famous manifesto of the 31 prior to the election under which Mr. Coolidge holds his office."

Islands on Congress

"The second proposition is the statement that 'under our constitution we cannot, by treaty, pledge or limit the future action of the congress.'"

"This is news indeed and, if true, the nations of the world may well hesitate before entering into any agreement with the American government. The Washington conference, which the president praises so highly, agreed that we would not fortify the islands of the Pacific and that we would not increase our tonnage in capital battleships beyond 35,000 tons. Are we to be told now that these agreements did not, in any way 'pledge or limit the future action of congress'?"

If so, why were they entered into and what did the Washington conference accomplish? If these agreements were nothing more than an exchange of polite notes?

"Is it true, then, that alone among the nations of the world, the United States cannot make no covenant relating to the future and that the hundreds of treaties we have made are but scraps of paper?"

The Heart of the Problem

"The president's comments upon the world court were challenged by Mr. Davis, who then turned to the announcement made by the chief executive regarding the commitment of the administration to the policy of international conferences, as specific occasions arise."

"Evidently without realizing it," Mr. Davis said, "the president approaches here the heart of the great problem that lies before the civilized world. That question is no less than this: Shall international conferences continue to be sporadic, exceptional and casual in the intercourse of nations, or shall they be a part of the regular, systematic, organized, day-to-day life of the world?"

"Sporadic conferences have been resorted to as far back as history runs. There is no promise from the past in continuing this system, and no assurance for the future. It is the ambition of the Washington conference to substitute in its place a system of organic, regular and periodic conferences, whose coming together will not depend upon the passing whim of any nation but which will be a part of the ordered life of the world."

In turning to the statement of Mr. Coolidge that he favored constitutional "covenants which would look to the outlawing of aggressive war," Mr. Davis said "here again definition has run mad."

"What is aggressive war?" he asked. "What is a constitutional covenant to outlaw it? Has the president any definition to give to those wars which should be outlawed as distinct from those which are not? Where would he draw the line between defense and aggression? What criterion can he point to that has ever confessed to the vagaries of an aggressive war?"

"Would he be willing to accept the protocol just proposed at Geneva, which makes the test of aggression the language of a belligerent to submit to involuntary inquiry or arbitration? What does he propose to add, if anything, to the 30 or more treaties negotiated by Mr. Bryan, as secretary of state, which had this end in view? How would he square his theory with his earlier declaration that we cannot by treaty pledge or limit the future action of a congress?"

Asks Coolidge to Explain

"If the congress of the United States, having the sole power to declare war, cannot be pledged or limited, as he says by any treaty, how will it fit his point of view to divide wars into classes, limiting congress as to some but leaving it free as to others? Will the president tell us in what manner he proposes to effect this outlawry?"

"To outlaw any course of conduct means to put it under the ban of some existing law. Where is this law to be built up? How are we to attain it except by international agreement? How are these agreements to be regarded if they do not bind the nations who make them?"

"A candid consideration addressed to the president's final summary shows the utter barrenness and futility of the pretense that we have a 'well-defined foreign policy.' Unless, indeed, that policy is one of pure negation, it is reassuring to be told that 'we have maintained our ancient traditions.' This has a fine, compelling flavor, but the tradition of moral leadership can hardly have been among those in the president's mind."

ALL HUNTERS ORDERED OUT OF N. Y. WOODS

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—A proclamation signed by Gov. Smith ordering all hunters out of the state forests because of the present serious bird band was issued today by Alexander MacDonald, state conservation commissioner.

John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, for the purpose of summing up the outstanding campaign issues of the present serious bird band was issued today by Alexander MacDonald, state conservation commissioner.

In renewing his promise for lower schedules, Mr. Davis made it clear that he harbored no resentment toward legitimate business fairly conducted but would "withhold the invitation extended in the form of exorbitant rates of duty, to profit through monopolistic control of production, markets and prices."

President Coolidge Satisfied

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—President Coolidge will seek the views of farm leaders during the next few days before determining upon the selection of a successor to the late Secretary Wallace.

Political engagements are on the president's list between now and election day, and he has indicated to friends he will take practically no further active part in the campaign, feeling satisfied with the progress made.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN AND LABOR LEADERS CALLED TO TESTIFY

Witnesses Questioned on Charges Regarding "Bribery of Labor Leaders"—Hearings Held in Washington and Chicago

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Chairmen of republican state committees in the east and labor leaders were summoned to appear in the effort of the Washington section of the senate committee investigating campaign funds to delve into reports of the use of large sums for swaying elections. W. H. Steed, district chairman of the United Association of Railway Employees and Otto Biand, president of the shop crafts of the Northern Railway company, were subpoenaed at the request of Frank P. Walsh of La Follette counsel, who told the committee they could testify regarding "bribery of labor leaders."

The eastern state republican chairmen were called for questioning about collections in their states, in which the La Follette organization has charged great sums have been raised for use in the western states.

The committee plans to adjourn Friday until after the election, but before adjournment it has been asked by counsel for the Republican National committee to permit them to present evidence which they claim will show that the La Follette organization is spending "enormous sums" in the campaign.

La Follette Expenditures

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—More light on expenditures on behalf of La Follette-Wheeler national ticket, as well as on behalf of the Coolidge-Dawes slate was sought today by the Chicago section of the senate campaign fund investigating committee.

E. Sheppard, president of the order of railway conductors, was called to the stand by the committee. S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and John M. Nelson, national director of the La Follette campaign, were among those from whom the sub-committee sought information about sums spent in the independent presidential campaign. William J. Butler, chairman of the Republican National committee, Frank

WILL USE MACHINES UNTIL SNOW FLIES

Lowell's motorcycle police squad will remain on the streets of the city and adjoining highways until the snow flies, announced Acting Superintendent of Police Hugh Downey today.

Because of the increase of automobile accidents in West Springfield, Motorcycle Officer Bernard J. Judge has been detailed to watch that thoroughfare for speedsters during non-school hours. Due to a smoothly paved roadway, motorists have been yielding to the temptation to hit it up on this street, and residents requested police vigilance.
